Don't Rely on U.N., Knowland Urges

Asks Stifling of Soviet Veto To Make World Body Work

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland of California challenged tonight the Eisenhower administration's reliance on the United Nations as the core of U.S. foreign policy.

In a speech at Georgetown University here, Knowland called for a position in the U.N. which makes clear that:

"1. Our foreign policy is an American policy and is not, and will not be tied as a tail to a United Nations kite.

"2. The United Nations cannot take a moral leadership in the world unless the Soviet Union's veto can be limited to those matters which impinge on its sovereignty and not those where the Soviet Union is violating the sovereignty of others.

SEES RISK
"3. On the basis of its record to date, no free nation, including out own, dare risk its security on the United Nations, ability to function effectively.

"4. As an international forum for debate and discussion it has a real value, but a substantial question remains as to whether this limited value is worth the price.

"5. If the United Nations is to be saved for use as an effective agency for collective security, steps must be taken to remedy its defects now, not a year from now or 10 years hence."

Sen. Knowland observed that the Truman and Eisenhower administrations had "made the United Nations a keynote of our foreign policy."

CITES RECORD

"Does the record of the United Nations warrant a continuation of our policy and our support?" he asked.

He said that, while the United Nations had scored some successes for peace, its performance in many other instances had been "debatable, to say the least."

Thus, he said, it is time to demand "some constructive alternatives" to Soviet obstructionism in the United Nations, notwithstanding "fear of the Soviet Union" or "the objections of those who believe the United Nations is Utopia and will brook no criticism."

He proposed that this country insist on limiting the Soviet veto by invoking a proviso of Section 3 of Article 27 of the U.N. charter.

QUOTES PARAGRAPH

This section reads:

"Decisions of the Security Council on all other matters shall be made by an affirmative vote of seven members including the permanent members (the Soviet Union among others); provided that, in decisions under Chapter VI and under Paragraph 3 of Article 52, a party to a dispute shall abstain from voting."

This language, Knowland contended, makes it possible to bar the Soviet from voting on issues in which it is accused of violating sovereignty of others.

"If the Soviet Union makes a point of order that it is exempt, let the point of order be overruled by the chair and sustained by the other Security Council members," he added.

"At this point the Soviet Union might decide to walk out, as Hungary did last December. So be it."

South, NAACP Agree Reds Want To Foment Confusion

By The Associated Press

Several Southern governors and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People agreed Monday night that the American Communist party's promise to support the antisegregation movement in the South was designed to create trouble and confusion.

The American Communist party at its convention in New York pledged to support the program of the NAACP "and other organizations of the Negro people to accomplish desegregation of the schools in accordance with the mandates of the federal courts."

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said the NAACP "does not, and never has, sought the support of the Communist party. We reject their support and do not need it."

"As a matter of fact," he said in a statement issued in New York, "the Communist party does not really want to do anything about the vital issue of desegregation. What the party seeks is confusion, not solution."

In the South there was similar reaction to the Communist party pledge.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina said "The Communists are following their usual line of trying to create disturbance and confusion."

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas had this to say:

"A Communist would be for

DAR Official Who Didn't Want Mexicans To Carry 'Old Glory' Is Ousted in Denver

DENVER, Feb. 11 (AP)—The local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution today ousted an official who said over the weekend she wanted no Mexicans carrying American flags in patriotic ceremonies sponsored by the DAR.

Mrs. James T. McDowell, regent of the Denver group, said the post of chairman of the patriotic education committee was "vacated."

It had been held by Mrs. Charlotte Rush, whose weekend statement touched off protesting answers across the nation.

Mrs. McDowell also released an apology from Mrs. Rush saying:

"I am deeply sorry that in an unguarded moment I made such an unfortunate statement regarding the American flag in connection with our Spanish-American people."

Mrs. Rush's controversial statement was made in connection with a scheduled patriotic ceremony at the Colorado Industrial School for Boys in nearby Golden. The ceremony has since been canceled.

Mrs. Rush had said, "I wouldn't want a Mexican to carry Old Glory, would you?"

The Colorado House of Representatives passed a resolution introduced by Rep. Bert Valleges of Denver asking the governor to launch an investigation into alleged racial discrimination in state institutions.

The resolution termed Mrs. Rush's statements "repugnant" and "unpatriotic."

SINGED ANATOMY

Benson's New Supports Ripped by Farm Staters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Farm state congressmen angrily assailed Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson today for the administration's decision to reduce 1957 farm price supports on eight major crops.

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD), borrowing a phrase made famous by Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, said the action threatened to bring on a depression that "will not only 'curl your hair' but singe every segment of our national anatomy."

House Democrats denounced the plan as a "body blow" at the nation's farmers. Rep. George S. McGovern, South Dakota's first Democratic congressman, accused Benson of "applying economic sanctions to the American farmer."

8 CROPS

Benson announced Saturday that 1957 price supports would be lower than last year on oats, barley, sorghum grain, rye, soybeans, cotton, rye and cottonseed. Dairy price supports, which have cost the government the most, were continued unchanged.

Several Democratic congressional farm leaders conceded there was no chance Congress would reverse Benson's action. They hoped instead to push through an alternative plan to increase soil bank subsidies to farmers by as much as $800 million dollars.

Case told the Senate in a prepared speech that Benson's policies are "only an anaesthetic to lessen the pain of going broke."

Noting that the secretary was scheduled to speak soon in Pierre, S.D., Case said "I want the farmers of my state to have his best advice on how to make ends meet when prices go down."

He said Benson believes that government price supports always should be below the market so farm commodities always will move on the market place.

WRONG THEORY

"Personally, I think that theory is wrong and, if continued, will bring the country into a depression that will not only 'curl your hair,' but singe every segment of our national anatomy," Case said.

He said Benson's theory that farmers will curtail output if prices fall, ignores the fact that they have big investments and actually must produce more to make ends meet when prices are low.

"We cannot keep high prosperity in the industrial centers with agriculture in the trash can," Case said.

McGovern said the administration apparently has decided the farmers "should pick up the tab" for the Middle East program.

Bus Strike Hits Memphis; 600 Walk Out

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 11 (UP)—Some 600 bus drivers went on strike without notice today, protesting the suspension of two union members for failing to pick up passengers, and two-thirds of them defied an ultimatum to return to work or lose their jobs.

A population of almost half a million was left without public transit by the walkout at 2 a.m. CST which Roane Waring, president of Memphis Street Railway, called "outrageous and inexcusable."

Waring sent the local of the Amalgamated Assn. of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees a demand to get the men back to work by 2 p.m. CST or face cancellation of the labor contract and discharge of their employment. He also threatened to hold the union liable for damages.

But although both the local president and secretary ordered the men to return to work at a second mass meeting today, more than 400 of them refused.

The strike took bus riders by surprise. They waited as usual on street corners this morning for buses that failed to show up.

Waring said he wasn't notified of the strike until 4 a.m., and at that time supervisors were sent out in automobiles along various bus routes to advise citizens that the buses were not operating.

"We certainly don't want them here, Daley said. 'Why don't they go to Moscow?'" Daley refused to comment on whether the city will take any steps to keep the top Communist brass out of Chicago.

Macmillan Insists Arms Cost Be Cut

Norstad of NATO Gets Blunt Talk

By DREW MIDDLETON

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

LONDON, Feb. 11—Britain intends to reduce defense expenditures to save the national economy and to go about it in her own way.

This blunt summation of government policy was offered tonight to Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces, by Prime Minister Macmillan.

Speaking at a dinner given in Norstad's honor, Macmillan declared that over-insurance against war can debilitate an economy. He said the business of finding the right balance between defense and other expenditures must be left to the political leaders responsible to Parliament.

REGARDLESS OF PRESSURE

This was interpreted in government circles as a clear warning that despite the forebodings of Norstad, expressed in his speech, and of their own military advisers, Macmillan and his cabinet intend to proceed with defense cuts regardless of external pressure.

Both Macmillan and Norstad emphasized the importance of restoring good relations between the United States and Britain.

President Eisenhower emphasized the joint responsibility of Britain and the U.S. toward NATO in a message read to the diners by Earl Attlee, former prime minister.

Britain and the U.S., Eisenhower said, share both the "great tradition" and the "burden" of the defense of the Atlantic Alliance.

FREEDOM INDIVISIBLE

"Toward this end," the President continued, "we have made many sacrifices, and through NATO we are continuing to give solid evidence that freedom is indivisible and that to preserve it we must stand united in our determination to establish peace with justice."

Macmillan spoke gratefully of Eisenhower's "generous gesture" of suggesting that his meeting with the Prime Minister next month be held on British soil in Bermuda.

Despite the courtesies exchanged by the Prime Minister and Norstad, the difference between the British government and NATO on defense was clearly defined in their speeches and in discussions they had with Defense Minister Duncan Sandys during the day.

Norstad stepped off his plane with a warning that there is "very little room" for reductions in the NATO forces.

This was a reference to Britain's intention to reduce her ground forces in Germany by about 30,000 troops.

Stay Granted In Mississippi Slaying Case

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—

Chief Justice Warren today granted a stay of execution to Robert Lee Goldsby, a St. Louis Negro who faced execution tomorrow in Mississippi for the slaying of a white woman.

Warren did not specify a time limit to the stay. Presumably he will let it stand pending final action on an appeal which counsel for Goldsby has presented to the U.S. circuit court in New Orleans.

Two previous appeals filed with the Supreme Court by counsel for Goldsby had been denied, the latest denial occurring last Dec. 10.

The Negro was convicted in the killing of Mrs. Bryant F. Nelms, wife of a filling station owner at Vaiden, Miss., on Sept. 4, 1954. Her husband was wounded at the same time.

CONVICT RETURNS AFTER SEVEN YEARS
Deputy C. A. Smith Fingerprints Hayden at Tower

He Gives Up New Life, Gets No Hope of Parole

By ALLAN HEAD

No parole is in sight for Bennie Hayden, the escaped Georgia convict who gave himself up here Monday after seven years of leading a "new life."

"Not by any stretch of the imagination is this man eligible for parole," said Hugh C. Carney, chairman of the Pardon and Parole Board. Hayden has served about four years of a life sentence, Carney said, and cannot apply for parole until he has served at least seven years.

CONSCIENCE BOTHERED

Hayden turned himself in to Court of Appeals Judge Joseph Quillian Monday. He said his conscience tormented him during his new life in Hampton, Va.

"Many of the policemen there gave me their dry cleaning business," he said, adding that four detectives were his friends. "But every time they came in my place I felt that they were coming for me and finally I just couldn't stand it anymore."

During his seven years of freedom he established a successful dry cleaning business, got married and had four children.

"My wife and I have worked 10 to 12 hours a day for the last six years," he said. "We paid off $20,000 that we owed on the equipment and were doing a good job of raising our kids."

But for the last year Hayden had been debating whether or not to come back. "I talked it over with my wife. She said to do what my conscience told me—and that was to give myself up now."

BROTHER-IN-LAW SLAIN

"It's better that I do it now, rather than when the children are older," he said.

Hayden was convicted of slaying his brother-in-law with a shotgun in Newton County in 1943. Judge Quillian, at that time a Monroe County attorney, helped get Hayden's death sentence changed to life imprisonment.

Observers said they could not recall a single case in which a man whose death sentence was commuted, or who had escape on his record, had been paroled at the end of the seven-year minimum imprisonment.

Escape is a felony and an indictment could be brought against Hayden. It appeared unlikely, however, that this would be done. One official asked, "How much more time than life can a man serve?"

Hayden said he had not returned hoping for a parole. "I came back to serve my debt to society," he said. He said his attorney so informed the Pardon and Parole Board Monday morning.

"My wife has said she will manage the business until I get back," said Hayden. He also "trained a fellow to do the heavy work."

"But it won't be easy on them—I know that," he added.

Carney said the case did not parallel that of Roy Bailey last year.

Bailey, convicted of murder when he was 15 years old, served four years and then escaped to North Carolina. Brought back to Georgia 16 years later, he was granted a parole, largely on an interim record of honorable military service and solid citizenship.

It was pointed out, however, that Bailey was originally sentenced to life imprisonment. Hayden was sentenced to death, but later gained commutation. Carney said that Hayden had escaped for several days on a previous occasion.

"The Parole Board is glad to see a man voluntarily return, but it is no more than he should have done long ago," Carney said. Hayden is in Fulton County Tower pending his removal to the Reidsville state prison. Corrections Board officials said.

Tennessean Sentenced in Holdup Here

An escaped Tennessee life-term convict Monday was given a 10 to 20-year prison term by Fulton Superior Court after conviction of a $6,500 holdup of a Lakewood avenue, SW, supermarket last fall.

Three persons identified Ralph Robert Cozzalino as the gunman who held up a supermarket at 2777 Lakewood Ave. on Oct. 13.

Cozzalino currently is serving a three-year sentence at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary. He escaped Oct. 2 from the Tennessee State Prison at Nashville, where he was serving a life term with no hope for parole as a habitual criminal.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrested Cozzalino here early in November in a

Decatur Slow In Business License Sales

Decatur businesses have only until Friday to purchase 1957 business licenses without a penalty, city clerk Mrs. Mortie H. Christian reminded Monday.

"We have been very disappointed at the delay in purchasing licenses thus far this year. Only about 50 per cent of the business houses have bought theirs," Mrs. Christian said.

A 10 per cent penalty will be assessed against tardy purchasers, she said.

She reminded vending machine operators that change in city ordinances requires all such machines to have licenses. In the past certain charitable organizations have been able to operate machines without licenses.

3 Boys Accused of Fishing Fryers From Poultry House

Three youths Monday discovered a bag of trouble tied to the end of a homemade fishing pole.

Detective Pinson Hammond said the three, two aged 13, the other 14, used the fishing pole to snare chickens through a window of a poultry house at 448 Georgia Ave., SW.

The pole had been fashioned by tying three wire coat-hangers together, Hammond said.

He said the trio had supplied their neighborhood with chicken for several months, selling fryers for 50 cents each and hens for $1.

On one occasion, Hammond said, a stray dog attracted by the squawking chickens attacked the three and broke up their fishing expedition.

Another time, he said, someone inside the poultry house opened

Clayton Threatens The Airport's Future

The demand by Clayton County for tax revenue from Atlanta airport property located in that county is, to say the least, shortsighted. It poses a serious menace to further development of the airport and, for that matter, to development of other airports all over the state.

The threat by Clayton's two House members to secure passage of a legislative act giving their county tax powers over the airport property could open a Pandora's box which would all but wreck the facility. With such a precedent, airports all over the state would become vulnerable and development of aviation could be delayed by many years.

It is difficult to understand the attitude of Clayton officials. The county stands to gain more from the airport's development than any community in Georgia and virtually without cost to the county itself. Hundreds of people who live in the county are employed there and this number will grow if the airport itself is permitted to grow.

The facility has opened up great industrial possibilities for Clayton, giving it an opportunity to speed up business development by many years. Would its people want to stop this?

Atlantans now are being asked to vote for a 10-million-dollar bond issue for further airport development, of which Clayton counties will get the benefit without investing a dime. It is just too much to expect Atlantans in addition to pay taxes to Clayton on improvements they have made in this public project.

The airport is a non-profit venture. While theoretically it is an Atlanta project, it actually belongs to all of Georgia since all Georgians use it and since it is making the state one of the most important aerial centers of the nation. Its revenues go into retirement of bonds and revenue certificates for constant improvements which are necessary.

Such a nuisance tax measure would endanger all future bond issues and revenue certificates. Who would want to buy either if there is such a tax threat against them? If airport property is taxable, then every other taxing agency—every county and city involved—could follow a similar procedure. The result would be strangulation of airport progress.

We urge Clayton County representatives not to go through with this dangerous proposal. But if they insist, the General Assembly must reject it for the good of all Georgia.

'Big Three' Conferences Will Help Mend Alliance

Diplomacy in time of cold war often moves as slowly as molasses in January. But, happily, it does move.

The President has scheduled meetings in "the near future" with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and with French Premier Guy Mollet.

This will be the first step in repairing the necessary alliance between the three allies of the two great wars. There will be, at first, separate meetings. The President will go to Bermuda for one and Mr. Mollet will come to Washington for the other. Later there will be joint meetings.

The President has waited on Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Mollet. The former had to put his house in order after Sir Anthony Eden's resignation. The French leader had to get past a political crisis.

The meetings should be productive. Certainly the alliance is a vital one. The President knows this. It will perhaps be possible in the months ahead to resume Big Three relationships with the Arab world, impossible though that now appears.

We congratulate the President on this progress and the announcement of it.

TVA, Allatoona Dams Arise to the Occasion

Multipurpose dams in north Georgia and Tennessee again have proven a bulwark against the watery loss of millions of dollars.

The Tennessee Valley Authority's flood control system prevented an estimated fifty million dollars in damage to Chattanooga during the recent period of heavy rains. TVA also safely impounded the water that would have split into the operations area of Atomic Energy Commission plants at Oak Ridge.

TVA, in checking the disaster that surely would have cascaded down upon the Chattanooga area, saved the taxpayers enough money to pay for a large slice of the storage dams.

Closer to home, Allatoona Dam safeguarded the Etowah Valley. Farmlands, homes and cities—especially Rome—were spared from the onslaught of water that would have tumbled down upon them.

The flood conditions again proved the fact that the Oostanaula River needs to be harnessed. Small dams should be built on the tributaries of the river, or flood control dams constructed on the Oostanaula.

Meanwhile, patience is growing thin at the bickering that is delaying construction of Hartwell Dam. Those responsible for the present stalemate should not lose sight of the fact that the project, in addition to serving the Savannah River Plant and boosting the general economy of the region, also would prevent floods.

Flood control savings to property can be measured in dollars. Human lives that are saved cannot be.

Lincoln's Stature Grows With Passing of Years

This is Abraham Lincoln's birthday. He was born Feb. 12, 1809.

Carl Sandburg, the greatest biographer of Lincoln, said of him when asked how he had managed to keep on with years of research, "The son-of-a-gun grows on you."

He has grown on America ever since he entered the White House and he was a tall man then. He keeps on growing. Henry Grady, the great Southern editor of the last century, called him "the greatest American" because in him was fused the "frontier woodsman and the aristocrat; the Puritan and the Cavalier," so that he reflected the graces, the tenderness and strength of the Republic.

Stephen Vincent Benet, in "John Brown's Body," wrote of one of Lincoln's favorite stories. It was of the old hunter near Pigeon Creek who had a kennel full of hunting dogs. But one old dog he never would sell or lend.

This dog was old and sleepy. He wasn't much on looks or speed. The young dogs could outrun him any time, outlook him and outstep him. "I know all that," said the old hunter, "but, mister, that dog's hell on a cold scent and once he gets his teeth in what he's after, he won't let go until he knows he's dead."

Lincoln was patient in a time of great crisis. He could say when they demanded of him to announce his policy, that his policy was to have no policy. He could keep his head when all about him men were losing theirs. He sank his teeth in justice and held on until the Union was saved.

In our time, it is well to think not so much on what he said, but on his faith. It is possible to lift sentences out of context and quote most men on most anything. His faith in the Union, and the Republic and today it is for us, the living, to read again the Gettysburg Address and draw out faith anew from it. Let the foolish voices be heard. But hold to the faith in our country and its purpose for men.

Settle Legal Question About Jekyll Lot Sales

In view of the doubt about the legality of selling all or any part of Jekyll Island, the Georgia Senate had best establish whether it is on sound legal grounds before proceeding with House-approved plans to sell lots on the island.

As long as such doubt exists, there is bound to be few buyers.

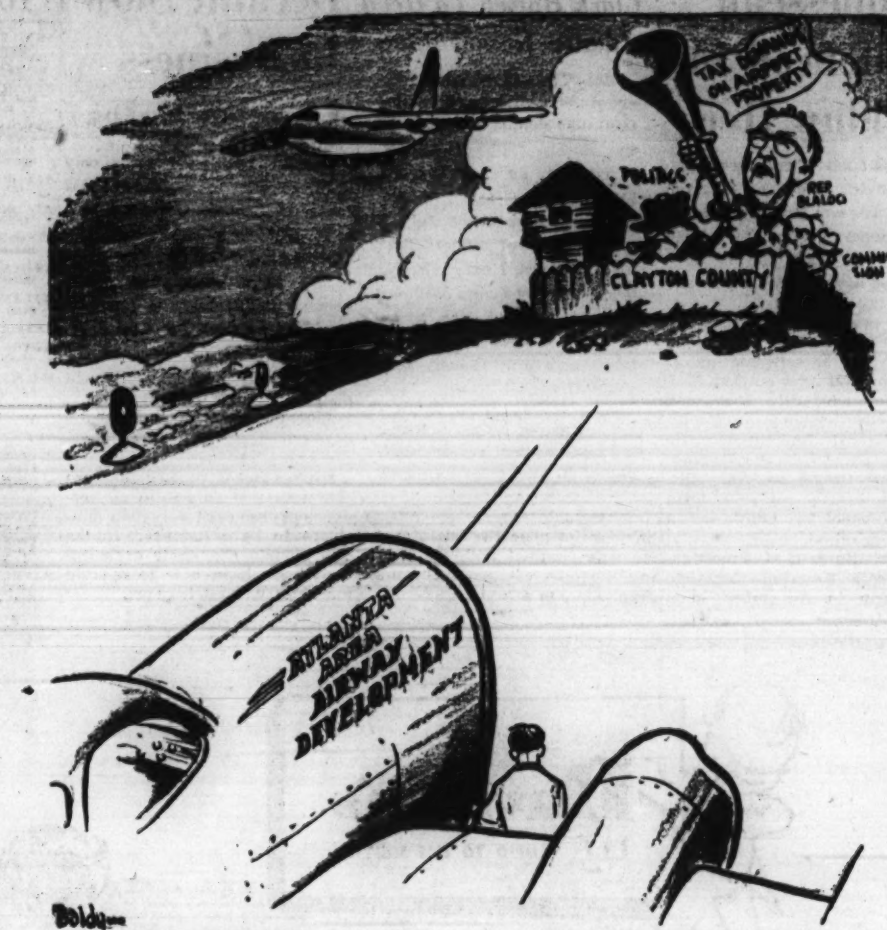

Despite arguments to the contrary, the manner in which the state acquired the island—through condemnation proceedings—has brought up serious questions in the minds of some lawyers about whether it can be sold. They fear that any attempts at sales would leave the state vulnerable to contests from its former owners.

If it is now up to the Senate, since the House yesterday approved lot sales without settling the matter of legality.

Meanwhile, Sen. Peyton Hawes has called for a ruling on the matter. But even such an opinion from the attorney general might not be conclusive. Who, for instance, would have final authority in approving sales? Would it be the governor?

Sen. Hawes also has made another intelligent proposal. He is for setting up a new Jekyll Authority which largely would remove it from politics. He doubts whether an appointive authority ever will be able to achieve that end. So do we. Sen. Hawes' suggestion deserves thorough exploration.

But even if such sales should prove to be legal, the present members of the authority or any other group which might succeed them should reserve the beach areas for development for all the people of Georgia. Motels, cottages and other facilities for the average Georgian are feasible on a lease basis and would make of it one of the finest resort beaches and recreation areas on the Atlantic Coast.

League of Women Voters Raises Questions On Public Schools Teaching Driver Course

Atlanta—In connection with the consideration of the driver education program in the public schools, the League of Women Voters would like to raise some questions:

1. While no citizen can doubt the need for driver education to increase traffic safety, are the schools the proper system to carry out this program?

2. Are there enough teachers and classrooms available to carry out this program?
3. How will the expense be met? It has been proposed that the estimated $25 per pupil cost be met by income from the sale of operators' licenses. At least $1,731,502 would be required next year, whereas the income from operator's licenses in 1955-56 was $1,346,502.

4. Would there be available in every locality the civic-minded automobile dealers to donate cars necessary to the program? The costs of the automobiles would be above the $25 per pupil cost.

Thirty hours of classroom instruction per semester would be required in addition to six hours of individual instruction behind the wheel if the program is modeled after the courses now being given, for example, at North Fulton High School. The load that can be carried by any one teacher is about 16 pupils per semester. In 1957-58 there will be 69,258 students in the 10th grade. This means that 4,328 teachers could be required to meet the needs over the state or 2,164 assuming that 32 students could be taught in two semesters by the same teacher.

Do we have enough teachers and classrooms now to provide the basic reading, science and math courses necessary?

MRS. WALTER PASCHALL, President, League of Women Voters of Georgia.

Needy Aged Citizens Deserve Better Deal?

Miami—The President's budget offers at least a moderate measure of support along the following lines: It suggests a stab at getting schools built, developing water resources, renovating blighted city areas and so on.

It doesn't propose to do any.

Assembly Must Help Alleviate Student Logjam at University

Enrollment at the University of Georgia in Athens increased by 900 students or 21 per cent from 1952 to 1955. There was another increase of 10 per cent in enrollment for the fall quarter of the present college year.

With some 6,000 students enrolled, the university's facilities at Athens are heavily taxed and the outlook is for continued sharp increases in enrollment—if the university can provide accommodations.

University officials label as "conservative" an estimate that the student body at Athens will be twice the present number in 10 years.

Obviously, if the University of Georgia is to turn out the men and women needed in the progress-conscious South, additional funds must be forthcoming.

The money is needed for many purposes. There must be an increase in the size of the faculty to provide for the growing enrollment and expanding program necessary if the University of Georgia is to keep abreast of needs.

Salaries of faculty members must be increased if good instructors are to be retained. Additional funds are needed to develop programs in such fields as geography, chemistry, physics, the agricultural sciences, veterinary medicine, home economics and business administration.

In a state faced with the problems of unprecedented industrial development, more funds are needed for general research. At the same time a greater outlay is vital if Georgia is to maintain an effective program of research in the field of agriculture.

We hope the people of Georgia will urge their governor and other political leaders to give thought to the long-range needs of the university.

Its pressing problems can no longer be neglected if the university is to serve the people of Georgia effectively in this day of change and expansion.

He Wants the Airlines To Build New Terminal

Fitzgerald — In regard to the publicity about the proposed new air terminal and your supporting editorial:

Do you think that citizens of Atlanta should fork over 10 million dollars of their hard-earned money to the airlines? Well, that's what it amounts to.

Suppose the Union or Terminal Stations needed enlarging or modernizing, would you be so generous as to give the railroads your editorial help so the citizens could chip in millions to get the job done?

Certainly Atlanta needs and should have a new modern air terminal, but let the airlines themselves put up the cash.

Atlanta Teacher Tells Of Rigorous Schedule

East Point—The faculties of the two schools in which I teach would like to know at what school W. G. Williams made his "own study of the situation."

True, as he says, the bell rings at 9 a.m. but that is the late bell for students. Teachers in the Atlanta city system are required to be in their rooms by 8:45 a.m. and there is an "unwritten rule" that they should be in the building by 8:30 a.m. Many teachers consistently sign in as early as 8 a.m.

There is one half-hour recess during the day, not two. At most schools each teacher accompanies her own class to the yard where all participate in organized sports. An alternate plan places at least two teachers on yard duty.

As for an hour lunch period, I can say that without exception no teacher has more than 30 minutes—some as few as 20 minutes for eating lunch with her children.

The dismissal bell rings for children at 2:30 p.m. Very few teachers leave at that time.

There are few, if any, businesses or professions that require the after-hours activities of their personnel that the school systems either require or endorse.

Leo Aikman Self-Interest Has Its Lobby

"Hey, there, you with your eyes in the stars, I want a word with you." I recognized the voice. It came from Uncle Kennesaw.

The form became visible in the mist that had kept us fog-bound since the first of February. "I've been watching" the lawmakers and all their doings in Atlanta," my old friend said, "and I'll be damned if I don't believe they'd amend the Ten Commandments."

"Yes, sirree bob," Uncle K. went on, "I betcha if you want to intercede Exodus 20: 3-17 in the Legislature, they'd want to water it down verse by verse."

"Now you take Commandment No. 6 about Thou shalt not kill they would be some smart young feller get up there and say, 'That's a pretty good rule, gents, but in my county I hev got a few constituents who will take a few snorts on a Sattidy night and then git in their cars and tear around. We ought to write in a clause saying Thou shalt not kill except when you get a little pie-eyed and can't help it.'

"And they would be someone else wantin' to excuse them that don't quite git around to gittin' their brakes fixed. And they would be someone who wanted to amend Thou shalt not steal so as to exempt ash-phalt and island."

I said, "Uncle K, you may be right."

But it would be that way with any legislature, I told him, human nature being what it is. Self-interest pays no fee and doesn't sign the register. But it maintains the most powerful lobby of them all.

I LIKE THIS: "Inflation is something that cost $10 a few years ago and now costs $15 to get fixed."

Christ Is Difference In Value of Person

I am sure that many of us never really appreciate the value of life until we witness a tragic and fatal accident or stand quietly at the newly made grave of a beloved friend. Then we are solemnly reminded that life at best is brief and that the days of our pilgrimage, even for those who live longest, are quickly gone.

A friend says that he never departs from a funeral service without a feeling of renewed challenge to live boldly, courageously and fully. The Epicurean, aware that the sands in the hourglass cannot be slackened, exclaims, "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow I die." That is life on a physical plane. A disciple of Christ has a different motto. For him life has a deeper meaning.

What does life mean to you? If a person thinks only of man's physical nature, then his body may be valued at 90 cents. That is the chemical worth of the body of a person of average weight. As someone has judged, there is enough water in a man's body for a small wash, enough fat to make seven cakes of soap, enough iron to make a better than medium-sized nail, enough lime to whitewash a small chicken coop, enough sulphur to kill the fleas on a dog and enough potassium to fire a toy cannon.

Is that what man is worth? That's about all, chemically speaking. But Christ never judged man by such a standard. Spiritually speaking, man is a child of God. What price tag can be placed on such a value? Ninety-odd cents? Was Louis Pasteur worth only 98 cents? Or George Washington? Or Saint Augustine? Perhaps, chemically speaking, But in terms of the spirit can anyone estimate their value?

Chemically speaking, we are all alike—Judas or Jesus, Hitler or Lincoln. But you and I know that there is a difference. What is the difference? Christ makes the difference.

The Bible says that man, spiritually, is a child of God. The Bible speaks of man's spiritual origin and nature: "God created man in His own image" (Genesis 1:27); "Men, which are made after the similitude of God" (James 3:9); "Thou hast made him (man) a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honor" (Psalm 8:5).

The Bible speaks of man's spiritual destiny: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil" (Psalm 23:4); "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it" (Ecclesiastes 12:7); "The water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life" (John 4:14); "We shall bear the image of the heavenly" (1 Corinthians 15:49).

How do you choose to live: by the standards of chemistry or by the standards of Christ?

U.S. Economy Gears For Furious Growth

WASHINGTON—In measuring this expanding nation of ours, particularly the health and growth of its economy, it is important to look at other facts than the size of the national budget. Many are anxious, even alarmed, at President Eisenhower's projected 72-billion-dollar budget which the White House deems the "best under the circumstances."

But we need to appreciate, I think, that if the administration can hold the rate of growth in federal spending well below the rate of growth in our economy during the coming decade, we are in a sound position.

Here are some of the things which are in the making for the decade 1955 to 1965 as projected by the most careful economists, government and private:

Our population, which was 168 million on July 1, 1956, will be 193 million in 1965, an increase of 25 million.

The nation's labor force will reach 79,200,000 in 1965, an increase of over one million.

The gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced annually—was 412 billion dollars in 1956 and is expected to reach 560 billion dollars in 1965.

Taking into account the probable increase in productivity and the probable decrease in the work week, the labor balance sheet for 1965 would look like this:

Total civilian employment	74.0 million
Armed forces' personnel	2.8 million
Minimum unemployment	2.4 million
Total 1965 labor force	79.2 million

It is estimated that 74 million

Old Guard Mutters About Ike's Budget

WASHINGTON—Whether significant or not for the long range, one of the interesting developments just now is the muttering and beeping among businessmen over the turn taken by the second Eisenhower administration. This discontent, which finds its target in the 72-billion-dollar budget and a no-tax-reduction mandate, has reached the proportions of a mild revolution from the right.

The political designation for the aim of the second Eisenhower administration is that which the President himself gave it—"Modern Republicanism."

He might be surprised—or maybe he wouldn't—that this phrase is beginning to fall with a sarcastic thud from the lips of the Old Guard Republicans in Congress.

The hero of business and finance in this administration, the man to whom they look, is Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, quite a substantial businessman himself. When he spoke up critically about the budget at his news conference early in January, he confirmed their fears.

This business revolt has its ironies.

In listening to businessmen, you will note that what they rant about is spending for social welfare by expanding various programs—social security, minimum wage laws, housing—and such additions as the school construction program.

Two things might be pointed out in this connection that are common knowledge here.

One is that money recommended in the Eisenhower budget for social welfare functions is comparatively negligible considering the size and population of our nation. The bulk of the budget—and this has been true for many years—is for past wars and defense against possible future wars.

Not only is money for our national defense—41 billion dollars in the new Eisenhower budget—the pot of gold that has kept business booming. It also is the expenditure which no administration nor any Congress would dare deny in this turbulent world.

So when businessmen complain about spending they should recognize that it is defense spending. Another thing that is plain is this administration has been most kind to business, industry and finance—kinder, in fact, than any administration in this century.

From this administration businessmen have got special concessions—in tax benefits, in shaping regulatory commissions to favor the businesses they're supposed to regulate, in liberal grants of the public domain to electric utilities, and so on.

What the average citizen gets in the way of social welfare benefits is infinitesimal compared with those special favors to business and industry from the public treasury.

Yet business complains. Thereby another President learns sadly about gratitude, as did King Lear.

Porter Held in $7,960 Bank Carrier Holdup Probed as Mastermind of Syndicate Here

A railway pullman porter Monday was being investigated as the possible mastermind of a holdup syndicate which has terrorized Atlanta stores for the last three months, police said.

Lt. R. F. Jordan said the porter, Edwin Alvin (Red) Spicer, 44, Negro, of 1072 Ashby Grove, SW, and three others had admitted robbing two bank messengers of $7,960 last Friday.

More than $6,000 has been recovered, Jordan said.

The other three were identified as Russell Earley, 23, of a Timmons street, NW, address; Johnny Gamble, 25, of 34 Tallaferrero St., NW, and Robert Herndon Jr., 29, of 796 Play Lane, Northwest.

Jordan said he was told Spicer, an employee of Southern Railroad, spent the last six weeks planning the robbery of two bank messengers. He said investigators were told Earley and Herndon executed the robbery, working on a timetable supplied by Spicer.

Gamble was said to have followed Earley and Herndon in another car after they forced two employees of the Atlanta Currency Exchange to drive to Washington Park, and to have picked them up after the robbery.

More than $3,000 was found in a cigar box at Spicer's home, Jordan said. He said $1,380 was found in the basement of a house on West Hunter street and part of the loot was found in a house on West Lake avenue.

The four, now held at city jail for suspicion of robbery, will be placed in lineups at police headquarters to be viewed by other holdup victims, Jordan said. He said the lineups, beginning Tuesday, would be attended by witnesses to more than two dozen recent robberies of liquor stores, service stations and grocery stores.

Heinz, and several members of Congress.

The group members are to begin reaching here Thursday afternoon and the meeting lasts through Sunday. While the group is here, the King & Prince Hotel will be closed to the public.

LaGrange's Bid For Jet Base Is Refused by Navy

LaGrange is not suitably located for consideration as the site of a jet base being planned by the Navy department, Sen. Russell informed Lt. Gov. Vandiver Monday.

Russell, in a letter to Vandiver in response to a state Senate resolution asked consideration of LaGrange, said the Navy informed him the base is to be used for carrier-based planes.

The Navy, Russell added, does not propose to locate the base more than 200 miles from the main base at Jacksonville, Fla., which handles the carriers. The Senate resolution was

Kremlin Woos Adenauer With Offer of Trade Deal

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin dangled promises of a new era of friendship between West Germany in a letter published tonight. He proposed "profitable" trade with the Bonn Republic and Moscow's good offices in seeking German reunification.

"War or peace in Europe depends first of all on how we settle the relations between us," he declared.

The proffer was made in a letter delivered to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer last Friday. It came as Adenauer was preparing for an election tilt in West Germany with the Socialists, who believe closer relations with Moscow and putting Bonn's rearmament and NATO alliance on the bargaining table would advance unification.

The Soviets made the communication public as Socialist leader Eric Ollenhauer arrived in the United States to explain his policies to American leaders.

Adenauer, who himself has been preparing a note to Moscow to promote negotiations on divided Germany, made known last Friday that he had received a Bulganin letter, but declined to discuss its subject matter.

He told a news conference after he had read the letter, however, that the West must avoid provoking the Soviet Union at this stage because of a "developing change in international policy."

He predicted the Soviet attitude toward the West was bound to change because of events in Hungary and Poland and the balance in atomic weapons and guided missile developments.

Bonn government officials said the chancellor would reply to the Bulganin letter in a broadcast to the people Wednesday.

Judge Orders Newport News To Integrate

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 11 (UP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman today ordered complete desegregation of Newport News' school system by next Aug. 15.

Hoffman, hearing a desegregation suit against the school board here today, said: "We might as well get on with it. I see no reason for postponement." Hoffman said he would submit a written decree next week. He called on "all sensible people to uphold the law of the land." He said it appeared that Newport News school officials were "caught in a vise" between the state and federal laws. He said he had seen no evidence of a start toward integration in Newport News, and added that had there been, he might have been more lenient.

7 Youths To Eat The Cold Prizes They Dished Up

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11 (AP)—Seven delighted youngsters will not only see their sweetest dreams come true tomorrow, they'll get to eat them as well.

They are the winners of an ice cream breakfast menu contest, sponsored by the Oklahoma Dairy Products Institute. Each winner will be served his own concoction at 7:30 a.m. sharp; then, off to school.

First prize went to Orville Moon, 12, in his own words:

"First I would like to have a cup cake with chopped banana (sic) on the top and then put icing on the top of the bananas, then put another cup cake on top of the icing, then I would put icing on top of the cup cake."

"Then I would put four or five dips of ice cream on the top, then put a ring of pineapple on the top of the dips of ice cream and then put a cherry in the center of the pineapple. Then I would put ice cream around the ice cream special."

Delegates to the institute will attend the breakfast, too. They'll have bacon and eggs.

General Coming

Brig. Gen. Roy T. Evans Jr., USA, deputy chief of the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, will visit the Atlanta Exchange Service, Ft. Benning and Ft. McPherson this week.

Union Keeps Haircuts at $1.25 Here

The Atlanta barbers union decided Monday night to keep the minimum price of a haircut at $1.25.

At a meeting at the Labor Temple, called for a vote on a proposed raise to $1.50, approximately 100 members voted three-to-one against the increase.

A. A. Moore, business representative of the union, said that although the union minimum is $1.25, this does not prevent a union barber from charging more than that price.

Moore said many of the barbers wanted the increase because of higher costs. However, Moore said they were afraid of the prospect of raising prices to $1.50 and then being undercut by competitors.

Recently, a group of unorganized barbers on the north side of Atlanta raised prices to $1.50. Moore said, "Until such time as the union can get unorganized competition to come up, the price will remain the same."

Vaux Owen Heads Federal Employee Unit

An Atlantan, who has been a federal employee for 40 years, Monday was elected president of the National Federation of Federal Employees in Washington, D.C.

He is Vaux Owen, the assistant manager of the Veterans' Administration regional office here. He will assume immediately presidency of the 100,000-member organization. Owen will retire as a federal employee so that he may accept the full-time post in Washington, which pays $15,000 a year.

The federation, founded in 1917, is the largest and oldest organization for federal employees. Owen had been acting president since January. His election by the executive council is for an interim period of 18 months.

Born in Buford, Owen first attended school in a log cabin, and after two years of service in World War I, he attended the Atlanta Law School at night.

He began his civilian career with the government on Nov. 1, 1919, and progressively held the following positions: administrative officer of the VA, assistant manager, chief attorney and manager of the VA.

Owen resides at 1107 McLynn Ave., N.E. He is married to the former Mary Neil, and they have two children.

Fine Suspended After Sofa Fire In Hotel Here

Municipal Judge Luke Arnold Monday said he assessed a $30 fine, suspended, against Baldwin County Rep. Robert L. Griffith, 54, in connection with a sofa fire at a downtown hotel.

Fire Dept. Investigator Roy Parker said he was told Griffith evidently dropped off to sleep while watching television in his room. An occupant of an adjoining room noticed smoke and turned in an alarm. Patrolmen W. H. Byrd and E. J. Gossett said.

Damage was confined to the room, officers said.

Griffith was given a copy of charges for disorderly conduct-violating the fire ordinance, officers said. He did not appear in court. However, Arnold said he had been contacted about the case and investigating officers said Griffith was exhausted before reaching his hotel room.

Revenue Agents' Total for Week Is 204 Arrests

Enforcement officers of the State Revenue Department Monday said they arrested 204 persons for illicit liquor operations throughout Georgia during the past week.

The 204 included 86 arrested in the early morning hours in the Atlanta area Sunday.

Of the other 111 persons arrested 17 were seized in Richmond, 12 in Bibb, 9 in Chatham, and 8 in Carroll counties. The balance were scattered throughout the other counties of Georgia.

In addition to the number of persons arrested, enforcement officers destroyed 105 illicit liquor stills with a total capacity of 63,290 gallons. They also poured out 71,640 gallons of fermenting mash, and 1,967 gallons of illicit liquor, and confiscated 24 vehicles.

In the operation in which 86 were seized in Fulton County, federal and state enforcement forces and Fulton County Sheriff Ralph Grimes worked together.

Fire Levels Structure At Hollywood Cemetery

Flames late Monday destroyed a frame building which was used as the office and caretaker's quarters at Hollywood Cemetery, police said.

Patrolmen D. R. Turner and A. W. Jones said sightseers jammed a section of Hollywood road, hampering efforts of firemen.

The caretaker's quarters were vacant at the time. At first the building was reported to contain dynamite used in blasting out rock from graves. However, police said the dynamite had been removed two weeks ago.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

13 High Schools Here Offer Superior Student Classes

Superior students are attending special classes for the first time in 13 of 18 Atlanta high schools. Miss Ira Jarrell, school superintendent, told the Atlanta Board of Education Monday night.

Miss Jarrell said two classes have been formed at three schools — Brown, North Fulton and Northside. The others have one class each. She said some schools have not completed arrangements for the special classes. For years, special courses have been available to retarded students.

The Atlanta Lawyers' Club and the Atlanta Bar Assn. joined to make available three films on the United States Constitution to be used in history courses. Joseph Welch is narrator of the film which has been on the Omnibus television program. Grigsby Wotten, president of the Lawyers' Club, and Lewis R. Slaton Jr. and Sam Dorsey represented the bar association at the presentation ceremony.

Board President Devereaux F.

McClatchey accepted the films on behalf of the board.

The board also asked that a $50,404 unexpended balance from the 1954 school bond issue be allocated for paving at various schools. J. Austin Dilbeck and Ed S. Cook, buildings and grounds and finance committee chairmen, respectively, urged the paving, saying some school grounds are almost mud holes.

The board also:

1. Asked Atlanta University to donate a site for a new 15-classroom Negro elementary school to be used by university students in teacher training. University officials have indicated they would provide the site.

2. Adopted a summer school

IT'S LIKE TWO ENGINES IN ONE!

Announcing

OLDSMOBILE'S NEW

SUPER 88 HOLIDAY COUPE

DOUBLE-BARRELED ECONOMY!

Progressive carburetion is the original Oldsmobile answer to economy when you want it... power when you need it! A centrally located dual-jet carburetor fuels your engine through $\frac{3}{4}$ of its power range. But should you ever need extra power and torque...

TRIPLE-ACTION RESERVE POWER!

Simply nudge the accelerator beyond the $\frac{3}{4}$ mark and you "call out the reserves"! The J-2 Rocket then operates on three dual carburetors! J-2 is highly efficient... fully proved. It's available now at a very modest extra cost. Try it!

It's the most exciting engine development since the first Rocket was launched!

Engineers have dreamed for years of an engine that combined exceptional horsepower and torque potential with outstanding fuel economy in normal operation. The first big step towards this goal came from Oldsmobile when the first Rocket Engine ushered in the modern high-compression era.

And today, Olds is ready with an equally significant advance—the new J-2 Rocket.* You'll find that in operation, it's like two engines under the hood!

In your day-to-day driving, you enjoy the smooth, alert action of the Rocket—with the fuel economy of dual-jet carburetion and a 10-to-1 compression ratio. But beyond all this there's a "second stage" in J-2 operation to meet the exceptional driving situation. Just open the accelerator beyond the $\frac{3}{4}$ point and two additional carburetors automatically jet into action. There's an instant boost in torque and power. And you'll appreciate the immediate response as another Olds contribution to your safety at the wheel.

We invite you now to join us for a J-2 Rocket test. Come in—be our guest!

*277-h.p. Rocket V-400 Engine standard on all models.
J-2 Rocket Engine, with 300 h.p., and special Rocket Engine, with up to 312 h.p., optional at extra cost.

French Sign Trade Pact With Soviet

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)
 PARIS, Feb. 11—France agreed today to trade the Soviet Union 274 million dollars worth of food and manufactured goods for equivalent values in Russian oil, coal and other raw materials in the next three years.

Signing of the Franco-Soviet trade accord here coincided with a warning by Paul Ramadier, minister of finance and economic affairs, that France must increase her exports and adopt austerity at home to avert serious economic troubles. Ramadier cited dwindling foreign exchange resources and the nation's swollen budget as danger signs.

SHARP HALT
 Failing a sharp increase in exports, France would be required to pare imports to the bone toward the end of this year, he indicated. This, by cutting off raw materials, would call a sharp halt to the French industrial expansion that has been a remarkable feature of the last few years.

For these reasons the Soviet trade agreement was described in official circles as advantageous to France. It will offer, in exchange for French products, reasonably large quantities of raw materials that otherwise might have been obtained only for dollars or other hard currencies. The dollar saving was put at 222 million dollars.

RAW MATERIALS
 Over the three-year period Russia will send France a total of 1,800,000 tons of oil products, 2,000,000 tons of coal, 475,000 tons of manganese ore vital to high quality steel production, and undisclosed quantities of asbestos, wood, paper, newsprint, paper pulp, cotton and furs.

In the other direction will go 100 million dollars worth of French locomotives, machine tools, and electrical, mining and chemical equipment. The balance of the French shipments will be in cables, cork, leathers, cocoa and fresh meats.

Russia To Bring Home Races Exiled by Stalin

By HAROLD K. MILLS
 MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (AP)—Soviet leaders have cleared the way for the return home of the remnants of five minority racial groups Stalin exiled from south Russia to central Asian wastelands in World War II.
 The transfer, starting this year, is to be completed in 1960.
 A government decree approved by Parliament today denounced the wartime expulsion of the Kalmuks, Chechen-Ingush, Karachais, Kabardins and Balkars, who once numbered about 900,000—as a "gross violation of Leninist principles."

But Stalin, who acted on the ground some had displayed hostility to the Soviet war effort against Nazi Germany, was not mentioned by name.
 The decree, promulgated Jan. 9 without public announcement, noted that whole areas were temporarily depopulated by the police action of 1943-44 which expelled the five groups from their homelands between the Black Sea and the Caspian.
 It ordered correction of these errors and "restoration to these peoples of their national autonomous rights and their return to their former homelands."

The decree did not mention the Crimean Tatars or the Volga Germans, who also were exiled. The Crimean Tatars numbered 250,000 before the war and the Volga Germans, descendants of 18th century German colonists, more than a million.

The Chechen-Ingush is the largest of the five affected groups. For that reason the deadline for its return to its old home, on the north slopes of the Caucasus, was put off until 1960. The others, also mountain peoples except for the plains-dwelling Kalmuks, are due to go back in 1957 and 1958. The Kalmuks are Buddhists of Mongolian origin. The others are Moslem groups of varied racial origin.

Judge Says Montgomery Scorns Blasts
 MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 11 (AP)—A grand jury heard a judge tack the label of public scorn today on the recent outbreak of violence in racially troubled Montgomery.

Circuit Court Judge Eugene Carter charged the Montgomery County grand jury to investigate the bombing of Negro churches and homes, and told the jurors: "Montgomery has for many years been free of such crimes and we want to keep it so. Montgomery frowns on such crimes of violence."

The all-white, 18-man jury will hear evidence during the week against seven white men already arrested in connection with the bombings and the six gunfire attacks on racially integrated city buses.

The seven men are free on City Court bonds ranging from $250 to $13,000 and circuit solicitor (prosecutor) William F. Thetford said the names of any indicted by the grand jury must be withheld until they are rearrested.

Alabama law prohibits disclosure of the identity of an indicted person until he is in custody or under bond in state court.

If any of the seven are indicted, Thetford said they will be called for trial at the February term of Criminal Court beginning next Monday. However, the solicitor said it probably would be the following week before any of them could be tried because of other cases ahead on the docket.

Cat in U.S. Spending Asked By Ike's Personal Fiscal Aide

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Dr. Gabriel Hauge, the President's personal economic adviser, said tonight he would be happier if the federal government would "spend less."

In this, he said he agreed with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and added that he hoped ways would be found in the next fiscal year to carry out the administration's program "with less money."

"As far as the purposes which are in this budget are concerned," he said, referring to President Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 budget for the year starting July 1, "I think that they are legitimate and that we ought to undertake them."

Dr. Hauge, Eisenhower's special assistant for economic affairs, appeared on the nationwide radio program "Reporters' Roundup" (Mutual).

He cited defense expenditures as the biggest reason for the increase in the 1958 budget, plus "a population explosion" and "constant pressure for new services." "Except for the vigilance of the President and his people, that budget, responding to the needs expressed by the people and supported by large numbers of them, could have been several billion dollars higher," Hauge said.

Opening lead: Five of diamonds. Perhaps the first of the post-graduate plays we seem to make part of repertoire is the strip and end play. The technique involved in the execution of this play is not very complex, but successful defense against it is far more difficult. That is why our hat is off to East in today's hand.

Against the final doubled contract, West elected to open the five of diamonds. Had he chosen any other lead, there would be no story to tell, for repeated spade finesse would have enabled declarer to discard a diamond from the dummy.

East won with the king, and South followed with the six. East could count on two diamond tricks and a club, but held forth little hope for a spade trick, because he was reasonably sure that declarer held the ace-queen of spades as well as the king-queen of hearts for his bids.

He could see that the spade finesse would be taken and any small spade ruffed by declarer in dummy. The diamonds would be cleared and the trumps extracted, after which play East would be given the lead with the queen of clubs and would have no safe return. A diamond or a spade would give declarer a ruff and a discard, and a club lead would be into dummy's tenace.

It was vital, therefore, to give West the lead early in the play so that he could lead a club. The one hope was that the opening lead had been made from the queen.

East, therefore, at trick two, led a small diamond. West won with the queen and realized that his partner was desperately trying to get him to lead something. It was easy to deduce that it must be a club. The six of clubs came forth, and declarer had no choice but to finesse. East won with the queen, making the third trick for his side. He was now able to exit with a spade. There was nothing declarer could do at the end but to try the second club finesse, and when it failed, he was down one.

Make Gospel's Power Live As Light to Unbelievers

QUESTION: Is it right for me to continue to have friendship with those who have not gone with me to church and to the Lord? — A. D.

ANSWER: The answer to such a question depends upon you. I think if you continue to serve the Lord faithfully, your friends will sooner or later make the decision. What you must decide is the degree of participation you can have with them in their social life with them in your work.

I would not counsel you to cut off relations with them, but rather to take advantage of their friendship and encourage them to come with you. Lead them to your church and to the salvation you have experienced through faith in Christ. Above all, be loyal to Jesus Christ and to the Bible. Do not compromise. If you do, they will lose respect for you and for your faith. Give them a practical illustration of the power of the Gospel in your life.

International Synonym for "Achievement"!

Mention the name "Cadillac" wherever you will—in any part of the civilized world—and you will find a common meeting-ground of understanding.

For "Cadillac" is part of the international language—and its meaning is known and understood wherever highways lead.

It is, in brief, a world-wide synonym for personal achievement!

And this is, we think, entirely logical. For over the years, the Cadillac car has played a vital role in the lives of so many of the leading citizens of every community where motor cars are seen.

Cadillac is, in fact, the predictable choice of those whose choice is unrestricted.

This, of course, is not to say that a motorist need necessarily possess an abundance of this world's goods in order to enjoy the great satisfaction of Cadillac ownership.

On the contrary, today's Cadillac car represents one of the soundest of all automotive investments.

Consider, for instance, the economy of buying a Cadillac. Several models are actually priced competitively with much smaller, lighter cars.

Consider the practical aspects of driving a Cadillac. The car is remarkably economical from a standpoint of both maintenance and operation.

And lastly, think of the wisdom of owning a Cadillac. Year after year, Cadillac returns a greater share of its owner's original investment than any other motor car in the land.

In other words, wisdom and practicality can lead you to the "car of cars" just as surely as prominence and prosperity.

We suggest that you come in soon—that you spend an hour at the wheel—and that you delay no longer in making the magic move to Cadillac.

We'll be looking for you—soon.

Dulles Tells Eban U.S. Will Guarantee Navigation If Israelis Leave Egypt

Mahmoud Fawzi, who is now presiding over the Egyptian delegation.

Dulles is reported to have told Eban that, while the United States had no guarantees that the Egyptian government would permit Israeli ships to pass through the Gulf of Aqaba to the newly-built Israeli port of Elath, it had reason to be confident that Egypt would abide by the principle of free navigation if Israel would withdraw its troops from Gaza and from the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba.

He conceded to Eban that the Israeli government might take a more skeptical view of Egypt's promise in this regard and that Israel's risk in depending on Egyptian promises was greater than anybody else's.

It was for this reason that the Secretary of State stated to the Israeli ambassador that the United States had reached the decision to make clear at the United Nations and elsewhere, not only that it favored world-wide acceptance of the principle of free navigation in international waterways, but that it would feel itself bound to defend that principle if the principle were violated.

By taking this position, the United States hoped, not only to break the deadlock between Israel and the Arab states over the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba, but to establish the principle of free navigation for Israeli ships in the Suez Canal as well.

The State Department has no evidence of any serious interference by Egypt with Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba but Egypt has blocked the passage of Israeli ships through the Suez Canal for years despite a resolution to the contrary by the United Nations Security Council.

According to official information here, the Suez Canal will be open for small oil tankers within three weeks and the view here is that some kind of interim arrangement for the collection of fees and also for determining which ships pass through the canal first must be settled with great rapidity if a serious new crisis in that area is to be avoided.

It is being emphasized here that the United States offer to defend the principle of free navigation in the Middle East is not intended to imply any threat to the government of President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Cairo.

DETAILS UNSETTLED

The details of the new American offer have not been worked out. It is understood that Dulles made clear to the Israeli ambassador today that the United States would be willing to put its assurances into the form of a declaration or a statement before the United Nations general assembly which is expected to renew debate on the issue this week.

What the American government is trying to do is to avoid the present trend among some nations at the United Nations to try to impose economic sanctions or pressure against Israel to withdraw from the Gulf of Aqaba region and the Gaza Strip.

Secretary General Hammarskjöld warned the U.N. Assembly today against imposing sanctions on Israel. He said collective measures by the U.N. now may add new conflicts instead of bringing peace to the Middle East.

COMPROMISE PLAN

Despite all the publicity on differences between Israel and Egypt, Washington feels that these two governments can work out a compromise arrangement provided the United States uses its influence to try to remove fears and suspicions on both sides.

It is conceded here that the problem of composing differences in the Gaza Strip is more difficult. This is an area without self-support. It has very little supplies of its own and not even enough water to sustain the 200,000 Arab refugees now living there.

The United States wants to see either the United Nations Emergency Force take up positions between Egypt and Israel in the Gaza Strip or, if this cannot be arranged, to increase the number of U.N. observers in that area to guard against or report any fighting in the future.

This policy would also be made clear in any U.S. declaration that might be made within the next few days.

Eisenhower also announced he will meet with Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain at Bermuda March 21-24, and that Prime Minister Mollet of France will make an official visit to the United States Feb. 26-27.

Both of the forthcoming meetings had been generally known but not officially announced by the White House until today.

At this news conference in the Scott Hotel headquarters, White House Press Secretary Hagerty also announced Eisenhower had signed a Senate bill to aid small businesses.

The bill increases from $150,000,000 to $230,000,000 the limit of loans that can be made by the Small Business Administration at one time.

Eisenhower also sent to Congress for Senate ratification a 1956 Treaty of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation with the Republic of Korea.

Also sent to the Senate were four nominations, including Fred C. Scribner Jr. of Maine to be assistant secretary of the Treasury.

Det. Chief H. T. Whitley said the merchant's pockets were turned inside out but that he was not ready to advance a robbery theory. The slain man's car was parked nearby.

Traffic Officer W. A. Holloway, walking to the police station only a block away, found Flowers at 7 a.m., apparently some 30 minutes after the fatal shot.

Cecil Flowers, a brother, said he had no idea why Luico Flowers went downtown at such an early hour. The department store, which usually opens about 9 a.m., was locked. There was no indication it had been opened.

Officers found themselves shy of clues or theories on the slaying. They noted vague indications of a struggle in addition to the pistol holes in the theater wall.

Probe Groups Stirring Up Strife, House Bill Urges

Would Set Up Interim Committee Aimed at Investigating NAACP

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

A new segregation measure—a resolution creating a joint committee of the House and Senate to take out after organizations "active in . . . fomenting strife and in the House Monday.

The resolution, introduced by Floor Leader Colbert Hawkins, would give a six-member interim committee power to issue subpoenas and require testimony of any "corporation, organization, association and other like groups which seek to influence public opinion or promote litigation."

The State of the Republic Committee referred the resolution to a subcommittee for study. The measure, ostensibly aimed at the NAACP, did not name any organization. It noted that corporations and organizations "are reported to be soliciting funds and memberships from well-meaning but misguided zealots and liberals who are not aware of the subversive character of such organizations and corporations."

INVESTIGATIVE FORCE

Under provisions of the resolution failure or refusal of any witness to answer a question would be punishable as for a misdemeanor. Provision is made for witness fees and a clerical and "investigative force."

Even as Floor Leader Hawkins introduced that resolution his bill to enable the state purchasing department to buy automobiles for traveling state employees was killed by a vote of 79 to 35. Hawkins said the state purchasing agent, Lawton Shaw, sponsored the bill to save state employees money when they buy automobiles. Rep. H. N. Ramsey of Effingham and Rep. Hugh Cook of Taylor opposed passage of the measure.

A constitutional amendment which would allow the State Board of Education to grant scholarships to students interested in becoming teachers on the condition that they teach in the public schools of Georgia for a year for each $1,000 received, was introduced in the House by Rep. Downing Muagrove of Citic and Rep. Battle Hall of Floyd.

CORPORATE ADVERTISING

After a public hearing attended by newspaper editors from several Georgia counties, the House Committee on Industry voted to report out with a recommendation that it not pass Rep. Douglas Carlisle's bill to reduce the number of times corporations must advertise their organization. Rep. Carlisle said the advertising of corporation charters for four weeks was unnecessary and expensive to small companies.

Speaking against the bill were Marvin Allison, Lawrenceville publisher, Jere Moore, Milledgeville publisher, Fulton Rep. Muggsy Smith, Rep. C. J. Broome Jr., editor of the Alma Times, and Rep. Hoyle R. Yandle of Toombs County.

Mayor Blasts Bill To Levy Airport Taxes

Clayton County legislators tossed into the House hopper Monday a bill which will allow Clayton to collect about $21,000 ad valorem taxes on Atlanta Municipal Airport property.

Mayor William B. Hartfield immediately denounced the bill as "punitive legislation" which could "have the effect of killing the further development" of the airport.

CALLS FOR HELP

Declaring that the "future of our airport is at stake," the mayor called for help from business and governmental leaders of the city and state to defeat the measure.

The bill amends a general law relating to sovereignty of cities and counties. The amendment says that any property used for airport purposes which is located in a county other than the county in which its governing authority is located will be subject to ad valorem taxes.

Clayton Reps. Edgar Blalock and William J. (Bill) Lee, maintaining their "we mean business" attitude on getting tax revenue out of the airport, submitted the bill after Atlanta officials turned down a compromise offer.

Earlier in the day, they told city hall officials they would agree to assess the 950 acres of airport property in Clayton at $500 an acre, which would mean a tax of $21 an acre. Property in that area now sells for about $5,000 an acre, they added.

LAND ONLY

The offer would have applied only to the land and would not include some 26 houses on the tax-free property which Atlanta rents to airport workers.

They said the general bill, if passed, will tax the property at an even higher rate.

Mayor Hartfield said the bill is an "unusual precedent" which is "fraught with grave consequences involving our future operation and financing as well as our relations with other local governments surrounding the field."

Japanese Textiles Bill Off the Senate Shelf

The Japanese-textiles-sold-here sign bill was removed from the Senate table Monday.

Sen. James S. Peters of Manchester, who proposed the action, said he hoped the Rules Committee would place the measure on the Senate calendar soon.

The bill has already been approved by the House. It was tabled in Senate last week.

Twitty Terms Tag Sale Bill a Give-Away

The House Motor Vehicles Committee sent to a subcommittee Monday a measure which Rep. Frank Twitty of Mitchell declared would have the effect of "giving away $150,000."

The bill would increase from 25 to 36 cents the amount of commission counties receive on the first 15,000 automobile license tags they sell.

State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams, speaking in favor of the bill, disagreed with Twitty's contention. He said he had no figures available, but added he did not think it would cost more than $100,000.

Williams said the state has been "having trouble" on the sale of tags through its agents in small counties because the "compensation is too small."

Twitty declared, however, it was "inconsistent" for the committee to put measures to cut tag prices into a subcommittee and "turn right around and give away 25 cents more of state funds."

Ports Development Fund Approved by Committee

$8,800,000 Is Contingent on Revenue; Timber Holdings Probe Call Delayed

A resolution authorizing Gov. Griffin to appropriate $8,800,000 for state ports development—if and when money is available—cleared the House State of the Republic Committee Monday.

The committee sent the measure to the floor after members were assured that the resolution did not mean the governor had to give the state Ports Authority the money. It would have to come from any surplus that might be available.

In another action, the committee delayed until Tuesday action on a resolution calling for an investigation of timber land holdings by paper mill corporations in Georgia.

REPORT ASKED TODAY

The resolution, signed by 25 south Georgia representatives, was referred to a subcommittee with instructions to report Tuesday.

Rep. William L. Lanier of Candler, a chief sponsor of the measure, said the holdings of the paper company are "approaching a monopoly on the supply of wood." He said some action is needed to "curb" paper company land purchases.

He said an investigation is needed to determine just how much land the paper companies own outright and how much they have under lease. One Georgia county, he said, has 85 per cent of its land under paper company ownership.

Rep. W. C. Parker of Appling strongly endorsed the proposed investigation.

NO GRIFFIN OPPOSITION

The committee approved the resolution authorizing $8,800,000 for ports development after House Floor Leader W. Colbert Hawkins of Screven said Griffin did not oppose it.

Rep. Ebb Duncan of Carroll said he feared the Legislature, by approving the resolution, might be "sanctioning" the spending of the entire sum.

But Rep. Charles L. Gowan of Glynn pointed out that it will be just another item in the contingent budget section of the budget—the section that can be activated only if surplus money is available.

He said the governor may, at his discretion, make all or part of the money available if he desires to do so.

The resolution would authorize the spending of the ports money—if it becomes available—at Savannah, Brunswick, Bainbridge and Augusta.

ST. MARYS STUDY

Before approving the resolution, the committee tacked on an amendment by Rep. John Odum of Camden authorizing a study of the feasibility of St. Marys as a state port.

In another action, the committee rejected, 7 to 4, a bill which would have permitted the licensed sale of "safe and sane" fireworks in the state. Rep. A. Mac Pickard of Muscogee, author of a 1955 law banning fireworks sales, said it would "open the door" to full-scale sales again.

Rep. Talmadge B. Echols of Upson, sponsor of the bill, said the present law is not working and that fireworks are being "bootlegged" by children.

"It is the enforcement—not the present law—that's wrong," Pickard said.

Senators Back Raise in Justices' Salaries

A bill raising the pay of judges of Georgia's Supreme Court and Court of Appeals to $18,000 a year got a do-pass recommendation Monday from the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The approved measure was a committee substitute from an original bill which recommended pay of $20,000. It is similar to a House compromise which also recommends the $18,000 figure.

Base pay of the judges now is about $14,000.

Neither the Senate nor House substitute measures include any increases in the base state pay for Superior Court judges.

fought not along big county vs. little county lines but on the question of how the money should be spent.

In other action Monday, the Senate Education Committee adopted a resolution summing up its recent discussions and investigations of school problems.

The resolution urges the State Board of Education to:

1. Increase the number of high school academic units necessary for graduation.
2. Give special emphasis to the fields of natural and physical sciences, which it said are important to the national defense and understanding the modern world.

Thus the battle now may be which have no milk control boards also have the lowest milk prices in the nation.

The people of Georgia do not want "government by bureaucracy," Sammon declared.

Speaking against Sammon were Sens. Edward E. McGarity of McDonough, Hawes and Charles Garrett of Nashville.

Sen. Fred Bentley of Marietta stated that "the original purpose of the milk control act was to control the quality of the milk." The milk board has done that job well, he said. "I am not in favor of doing away with something that is protecting our children," Bentley concluded.

Sammon's amendment failed 5-36.

As approved by the Senate the milk bill changes the name of the Milk Control Board to the Milk Commission. It also provides for more rigid grade inspections.

Among the other measures approved on Monday's calendar was a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment which would give totally disabled veterans $10,000 homestead exemption.

Sale of Jekyll Lots Wins Approval in House By 180 to 9 Vote After Hot 2-Hour Debate condemned and purchased for public use.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook has said the sales "might be legal." But Rep. Robert Scoggin of Floyd, who acknowledged he was supporting the bill reluctantly because he doesn't want lots sold, pointed out that Cook has not made an official ruling.

SEEK NEW BOARD

Rep. D. B. Blacklock of Coweta, former Jekyll authority chairman, signed Smith's amendment to abolish the present authority which is comprised of five men appointed by the governor.

Blacklock voted against the bill. Others who voted against it were: Reps. A. W. McKenna of Bibb; W. H. McWhorter of DeKalb; W. A. Orr Jr. of Wilkes; Henry N. Payton of Coweta; Ben B. Ross of Lincoln; E. H. Wilson of Bibb; H. E. Winkle of Whitfield; and Jack Murr of Sumter.

WANTED NEW BOARD

Sen. Peyton Hawes of Elberton, Senate floor leader, said he is "sorry" the amendment to abolish the present authority did not get House approval. Hawes, who favors a constitutional board to operate the island, said he does not know whether an amendment to effect this will be offered in the Senate.

Rep. Colbert Hawkins of Screven, House floor leader, urged passage of the bill as a means of attaining Gov. Griffin's goal of having "Jekyll Island planned on a sound financial basis that will serve the interests of the people of this state."

Hawkins said the bill would dispose of a problem that "by reason of many implications that have been made has affected the integrity of the executive department and the Legislature."

Scoggin spoke for the bill but against Smith's amendment. He said that instead of serving the purported purposes of removing Jekyll from politics, the amendment would "thrust it deeper into politics."

Murr, who has a resolution to investigate Jekyll pending in the House State of Republic Committee, questioned Scoggin extensively about the bill's provisions for public recreation areas. His questions, however, were abruptly interrupted when Hawkins inquired of Speaker Marvin Moate:

"Isn't it true that when the speaker yields it is for one question only instead of for the purpose of conducting a cross-examination?"

"The gentleman is eminently correct," Moate replied. Murr sat down after announcing he would take the floor to speak against the bill.

Murr spoke on the bill for 20 minutes, defending the right of unlimited debate and calling for an investigation of the island before approval of any legislation affecting its future.

He sarcastically referred to former State Sen. Jimmy Dykes, who has the Jekyll hotel properties under lease, as "his excellency," and questioned whether Dykes might get the house building business on the island if the bill passes.

Murr said he had heard that Dykes and his partner, William McMath of Albany, have plans to build houses on the island. He said "His Highness, Sen. Jimmy," already has control of the great majority of commercial interests on the island.

Rep. John Odum of Camden, who spoke for the bill, asked Murr whether he had a solution to offer for the Jekyll problem.

"SOLUTION BOTTLED UP"

"I have a solution (the resolution to investigate) bottled up in the House State of Republic Committee," Murr declared.

Rep. Howard Overby of Gainesville, chairman of the committee, stood up to challenge Murr's statement but withdrew his question when Murr said, "I apologize." Last week the committee voted to delay action on the resolution for a week. It is due to be considered Wednesday.

House Leader Hawkins said he will oppose it.

Rep. Charles Gowan of Glynn, who authored the compromise bill, said Gov. Griffin told him that if the Legislature did not do something to put Jekyll on a sound operating basis he (the governor) would "seriously consider selling the island."

"GOOD FOR JEKYL"

Gowan said the bill, which adds only the director of state parks to the present authority, will prove "good for Jekyll Island." He pointed out that under the bill lots can be sold only after they have been leased and improved. Lease payments would be applied to the purchase price of residential lots, he said, but no credit would be given on the purchase price of commercial lots.

Scoggin spoke for the bill but against Smith's amendment. He said that instead of serving the purported purposes of removing Jekyll from politics, the amendment would "thrust it deeper into politics."

"The gentleman is eminently correct," Moate replied. Murr sat down after announcing he would take the floor to speak against the bill.

Murr spoke on the bill for 20 minutes, defending the right of unlimited debate and calling for an investigation of the island before approval of any legislation affecting its future.

Fulton Delegates Offer 6 House Bills, Agree on 7 Already Passed in Senate

By RICHARD ASHWORTH
Fulton County's legislative delegation tossed six local bills into the House hopper Monday and reached agreement on seven other measures which already have Senate approval.

At the same time, 18 other Atlanta-area bills got approval from Senate and House committees and one local bill was passed by the Senate. The latter bill allows Fulton County nine years instead of three to pay water main assessments.

DeKalb's delegation tossed in the House hopper two bills to clarify salary provisions of the solicitor general of the State Mountain Judicial Circuit and annex a small area to Chamblee. The salary measure merely prorates the solicitor's pay over three counties instead of four. Clayton County, which formerly was in the circuit, now has its own judicial system.

In addition, the Fulton delegation was reported in virtual agreement on three other measures. These are bills to raise the pay of two city golf professionals, salaries of municipal judges and pay of city-county tax assessors.

Filed with House Clerk Joe Boone Monday were Fulton bills to:

1. Give the City of Hapeville authority to assess for repaving of sidewalks and streets.
2. Raise to $15,000 the present $10,000 promotional fund taken from Atlanta's 1/2 mill; tax park levy to promote Havalanta Games and other projects.

3. Restore arbitration of citizens' appeals of disputed tax assessments, virtually returning to a system abolished last year.

4. Set the beginning and ending dates of terms of the City Executive Committee members.
5. Allow the city to invest general pension fund money in revenue certificates.

6. Allow hearings on baby bond paving projects before Aldermanic Board committees instead of the entire board; let the city obtain title insurance on land it buys and provide for measuring points on 150-foot exemptions granted to corner lot owners on sewer assessments.

Rep. M. M. (Muggsy) Smith signed Senate measures approved by the other Fulton House members to:

Allow the Juvenile Court judge and Fulton Civil Court clerk and marshal to come under the judges' pension system, let Atlanta annex property off Sewell road, give Fulton Criminal Court four investigators, give three Fulton judges pension credits for prior county service, provide East Point with a new charter and let East Point annex two small parcels of land.

The delegation also is near accord on Atlanta and Fulton pension increases which one city source said would cost Atlanta between $200,000 and $300,000 more yearly.

Meanwhile, there were these developments:

1. Fulton's delegation heard unofficially that Gov. Griffin, who was reported to be favorable to the proposed neighborhood reversion bill, will veto the bill. The date for additional registration points in old Fulton and Campbell counties, decided to study the bill in hopes of drawing one the assembly will sign.

2. Rep. Smith said he is against any annexation of Fulton or Clayton territory to College Park this late in the season, no matter what kind of business would be closed up by the annexation. College Park officials charged annexation of a Fulton strip was held up because former Fulton Police Chief Neal Killa operates a liquor store in the area.

3. Committee approval on local measures included: Senate Judiciary Committee approval of bills to extend Fulton Grand Jury terms to complete terms and to let the Cobb solicitor general hire an investigator.

Senate County and Municipal Government Committee approval of bills to raise the pay of Clayton's ordinary, give Riverdale a recorder's court, combine the offices of Clayton's tax collector and recorder; do away with separate tax forms in Fulton for white and Negro citizens, extend Alabaster's limits, let Atlanta schools stay open on election days and clarify handling of city school bond funds.

House Local Affairs Committee approval of bills to extend the limits of Pine Lake and Avenet, give the Cobb consolidation authority to contract with a proposed partnership, give three Fulton judges pension credits, allow additional Fulton officials to come under pension system, let Atlanta annex a small area, give East Point a new charter and let East Point annex two areas.

Safety Council Rips Drag-Racing By Hot-Rodders

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (U.S.)—The National Safety Council today condemned drag-racing and other speed competition by hot-rod clubs.

The council issued a statement after a poll of more than 1,500 city and state traffic officials, school authorities and local safety councils. The poll showed that many hot-rod clubs engage in useful activities such as promoting traffic safety but that more than 80 per cent are interested primarily in racing, the council said.

"The National Safety Council opposes speed contests," the council said.

State Board Votes Financing Of Schools on Current Basis

board to put the foundation program on a current basis.

He and board Chairman George P. Whitman Jr. said money would be available to finance the program in full. Purcell said a study also would be made to see if the current financing could be made retroactive to last September.

The school board also committed itself to "the continuation of the school-building program until all children are housed in modern, well-equipped classrooms."

The present $200,000,000 state school building program is based on 1951 attendance figures. An additional $80,000,000 worth of school construction is needed in areas which have registered school enrollment growth in the past five years.

In voting to put the foundation program on a current basis, the school board said it was assuming "responsibility" for the financing of:

Teacher salaries and additional teachers for increased enrollment. Maintenance and operation money.

Adjustment in transportation funds to meet increases in needs due to higher enrollment and school consolidation. Full matching of federal funds for vocational education, vocational rehabilitation and libraries. Additional specialized teachers for exceptional children.

utterances of a soap box orator in Central Park.

"They are not the 'law of the land' as some falsely insist on calling it," Talmadge declared. "They are the law of force and force alone."

"It is not the people of the South who defy the Constitution; it is rather they who uphold it." Talmadge alluded to the Clinton affair, where a federal judge has cited several persons for contempt for opposing integration, with the following passage:

"When a federal district judge, acting under this peculiar new doctrine of force, issues a blanket edict that anyone who exercises the right of freedom of speech in this country may be hauled into court and fined for criminal contempt without a jury trial, then, I say to you, the time has come for us to restore the real constitutional law of the land."

"SWARM OF FED. AGENTS"

Talmadge said if the civil rights program now pending before Congress is passed "an army of federal agents will swarm over every state harassing and intimidating the people and usurping the functions of local law enforcement authorities."

Talmadge also assailed Republican farm and foreign policies. He said the South is being discriminated against in the operation of the soil bank and pledged to work to correct this.

"I have said before and repeat now my conviction that unless something is done, and done soon to give the farmer a better opportunity," this nation will suffer irreparable damage," Talmadge declared.

NO BLANK CHECK FOR AID

Speaking on President Eisenhower's Middle Eastern policy, Talmadge said he is opposed to giving the President blank-check authority to parcel out foreign aid.

"Nor do I favor any commitment of American soldiers to U.N. control under any circumstances without prior consent of Congress."

Talmadge said this nation's failure to support the British, French and Israeli moves against Egypt last fall "will be recognized by historians as a costly diplomatic mistake and a military blunder of catastrophic proportions."

"COURAGEOUS FIGHT"

Talmadge spoke from the speaker's stand in the House chamber and was introduced by Gov. Griffin and Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver.

Vandiver, sounding mighty like a gubernatorial candidate, praised Talmadge for his "courageous fight launched to preserve the principles of segregation in the state."

Vandiver served as Talmadge's campaign manager in his first gubernatorial race.

Sterilization Bill Wins Committee Okay in Senate

With but one dissenting vote the Senate Committee on Health and Welfare Monday recommended the passage of a bill which would allow for the sterilization of mentally and physically defective persons.

The committee also approved a House-passed bill which would give a board of medical examiners the right to suspend or revoke the licenses of physicians and enjoin them from practice.

The sterilization measure was introduced by Sen. Carl Sanders of Richmond County, who presented case histories from his county welfare department to show that three mentally defective women had given birth to 13 children, all of whom are either in the Gracewood school for defective children, Milledgeville State Hospital or jail. Rep. Frank Quill Sammon Jr. of Lawrenceville opposed the sterilization bill.

Fraternity House at Auburn Destroyed by Midnight Blaze

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 11 (AP)—Defective wiring caused a spectacular midnight fire which gutted the $80,000 Phi Kappa Phi fraternity house on the Alabama Polytechnic Institute campus early Monday, routing 40 students. No one was injured.

Fraternity members and firemen from Auburn and Opelika battled the blaze until after 2 a.m.

Personal belongings, furnishings and trophies were destroyed as flames swept the two-story, white-column home on College street.

Fire fighters from the volunteer campus fire department were delayed in getting to the scene when a garbled telephone message sent them on a wild goose chase to the Sigma Phi house.

The fire apparently broke out in the attic of the house just before midnight. Members of the nearby Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity house spotted smoke pouring from the neighboring house and gave the alarm.

Dock Strike Parley Turns 'Encouraging' at 11th Hr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The nation's top labor peacemaker found some encouragement tonight in efforts to head off a threatened Tuesday strike of 45,000 longshoremen from Maine to Virginia.

The talks have taken a more encouraging turn for the better, said Joseph P. Finnegan, director of federal mediation, shortly after he flew in from Washington.

Finnegan got down to brass tacks with the top echelons of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) and the shippers. He kept in touch by telephone with Secretary of Labor Mitchell as the clock ticked away toward the 5 p.m. Tuesday strike deadline.

One of the stumbling blocks to agreement was a right-of-management clause. Shippers demanded recognition by the ILA of their right to final control of dock gangs. The ILA insisted that, in some instances at least, employer decisions should be subject to arbitration.

The harbor here already was partially crippled by a tugboat strike that continued unabated through its 11th day. Peace talks, in recess since Friday, collapsed again five minutes after they resumed.

Tugboat strike leader Joseph O'Hare told reporters: "We walked out. No further offer was made."

McAffee Admits Knifing Arkansas Woman

Ross McAfee, 39, Negro, of Meridian, Miss., who last week admitted slaying Miss Willie Milam, 79, whose body was found in a well near Fairburn last Oct. 21, Monday admitted knifing a woman at Marianna, Ark., Dec. 4, 1951. Sheriff Eljsha Beber said at Taylorsville, N.C.

The sheriff said he understood the knife victim survived the attack.

Sheriff Beber said McAfee would be tried at Taylorsville on charges of first-degree burglary, a capital offense, and attempted rape and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill before he is turned over to other states. McAfee is being held at Taylorsville. He is accused of forcing his way into the home of a 17-year-old housewife at Taylorsville Jan. 31, cutting her with a knife and attempting to rape her.

Youth Snatches Purse and Discards It in Chase

Mrs. Tilman Paulk, 49, of Ocilla was knocked down Monday by a youth who was attempting to wrest away her pocketbook, police said.

Two bystanders chased the youth from Harris and Courtland streets, NE, where the incident occurred, to Baker and Courtland streets, where he discarded the pocketbook. Patrolmen L. O. Davis and H. H. Russell said. The pocketbook was recovered intact.

A ROCKY ROAD

Widow, 72, United With Old Beau, 73

PARIS, Feb. 11 (AP)—A 72-year-old Iowa great-grandmother was reunited with her old French sweetheart today and found the path of romance beset with obstacles.

She bubbled with confidence, however, that they will go through with plans to be married.

Mrs. Anna Beck, recently of Marshalltown, Iowa, landed at Orly Airport looking for a reunion with Camille Lambert, now 73, who courted her 52 years ago in the little French village of Herbeval.

He was not at the airport. "He'll turn up, I'm sure," Mrs. Beck told a reporter. "Camille is a decent man."

After some effort reporters finally found Camille. He was on a waiting train, angry because he had not found Mrs. Beck at the airport. He was ready to go home and call the whole thing off.

Mrs. Beck and an entourage of reporters and photographers set off for the station.

They found the train and began a search of the cars.

"There is M. Lambert," shouted Mrs. Beck, pointing to a grey-haired man.

"Ah, you're late," answered Lambert calmly. "I was going home and never see you again."

Later they posed for photographers. Mrs. Beck, a widow, asked reporters to turn away. They heard the sound of a kiss.

The trouble about their marriage plans is that Camille agreed to live in America when he and Mrs. Beck decided last year to marry. Now he's changed his mind.

Bond Hearings Speed Schools, Water Projects

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A series of public hearings is scheduled to expedite recommendations for school, public buildings and sewer and water requirements in the projected $70,000,000 bond issue.

The public buildings and water and sewer committees of the joint Atlanta-Fulton County Citizens Advisory Commission have set hearings for Tuesday at City Hall. Albert Mathews, who will preside over the public buildings group at 2 p.m., said those interested in city structures, including parks, should be present. He said a hearing on county requests will be held at 2 p.m. Feb. 18 in the commissioners meeting room at Fulton County courthouse.

G. Everett Millican, chairman of the sewer and water committee, scheduled a city hall meeting for 3 p.m. and urged those interested to appear.

Robert Regenstein, chairman of the bond commission's school committee, has set a hearing on city requirements at 2 p.m. Thursday in City Hall. City schools are asking $16,930,000 to provide 787 new classrooms.

Preliminary requests for city public buildings include $2,200,000 for parks improvements, $1,570,000 for a new police station and city hall, motor transport and prison farm improvements. Fulton County is seeking some $10,000,000 for public structures, including a new police station, new juvenile court building, improvements for the present courthouse and a civil court structure and other items.

The city is asking some $13,000,000 for sewers and $5,000,000 to help pay the $6,500,000 cost of construction a 20-million-gallon-a-day filter plant on the banks of the Chattahoochee River at the river pumping station.

Service Supply Bids

Bids on an estimated $375,000 worth of city services, supplies and improvements were opened Monday by the aldermanic board's purchasing committee.

Committee Chairman L. O. Moseley said the largest single opening was for waterworks supplies and improvements, which totaled $243,678. Arthur Few Co. was low bidder on laying 40 miles of new mains of varying sizes, asking $154,048. The city will furnish pipe valued at around $650,000 for the projects.

Waterworks Manager Paul Weir said the main-laying will head the list of improvements valued at more than $1,000,000 for the year. Armco Drainage & Metal Products Co. was apparent low bidder on a mile of 36-inch steel water pipe asking $89,630.

Sanitary Engineer Stafford Graydon said bids were opened on $70,000 worth of sanitary equipment and supplies. Included were compactor-type loaders, hoists, truck bodies, a tractor costing $22,500 contrasted to $17,500 for comparable equipment in 1950, and loader baskets for the incinerator.

Moseley said other bids for materials costing upwards of $60,000 also were opened.

Improving Appearance Aids Losing

By IDA JEAN KAIN
To sustain enthusiasm for slimming, do something exciting about yourself while making your figure over.
It's a fascinating fact that improving your appearance as you whittle the weight not only makes it easier to stay with the diet and the rhythm slimmers, but helps you look and feel like a new person. Your morale receives an enormous boost and your resolve is bolstered.

POSTURE HELPS
On the strength of the new figure you're cutting, stand proudly instead of settling for the slump. A "settled" posture gives the impression of added weight and bulk. On the other hand, even before the scales record results, you can look a good 10 pounds slimmer by standing beautifully.

From a psychological angle, the figure improvement effects of good posture are particularly important for new dieters. Admittedly, the first few weeks of dieting, when the appetite is being cut down to size, are a challenge. Unfortunately, there are no tangible rewards at the start of a reducing program to reassure you that the effort is worth the while.

The technique, therefore, is to make a spirited effort to "slim" your posture the very week you begin dieting. Chances are your friends will comment favorably on your appearance. The words "you look slimmer" have a tonic effect. In short, improving your posture can bring forth praise when it is most needed!

So—pull slim through the middle to give your figure a lift. Hold your head proudly, with that line at the back of the neck almost straight. Style is the way you carry your head. An added bonus is that regal head carriage "firm" the chinline.

THROATLINE TONING
While reducing it is particularly important to tone the muscles which brace the throatline. Take this easy exercise morning and night. Lie on back on bed, with a flat pillow under your shoulders. Raise head slightly to be in line with shoulders... do not tip chin down... hold for a slow count of six, lower slowly, and repeat twice.
If you'll make it a point to do something exciting about yourself and have fun doing it, you'll not slump nor lose your zest.

Girl Shouldn't Spread Gossip About Friend

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:
This problem concerns a group of girls in our senior class who have always been good friends until recently. Up until now we have always done everything as one big group and tried to include all in our plans.

Recently one of the girls, Ann, started some nasty rumors about another girl, Sue. Ann has tried to persuade the rest of us to snub Sue and some of the girls have gone along with her in doing this.

When they asked me to snub Sue, I told them that friends weren't supposed to snub each other and I'd have nothing to do with it. Many of the girls feel the same way I do and we've started a "loyalty group."

Our motto is, "If you can't say anything good, don't say anything." I am writing this letter to ask you what we can do to make Ann realize how wrong she is?

It seems there can be no truth in the nasty rumors that Ann has started about Sue. Otherwise, your "loyalty group" would know about them too, since you have been close friends for so long.

Ann may have several (not so good) reasons for starting the gossip. Perhaps she is jealous of Sue. Is Sue more popular with boys? Does she excel in studies or sports? Is she better looking? Is her personality better than Ann's? You should know the answers to these questions while I can only guess.

I suggest that some of the girls in your group go to Ann, and try to show her how wrong it is for her to spread untrue, malicious gossip. Even if the stories are true it will not help the situation for her to talk about Sue.

If Sue has done something wrong, she needs help and as her friend you, perhaps, could help her. I have always been wary of people who gossip, because I believe if a person will say unkind things about a mutual friend, she will surely talk about me to others. This type of person is certainly not capable of being a true friend.

Dear Mrs. Ricker:
I am 15 years old. Just about every time I go out on a date my 16-year-old brother makes fun of my girl.

So, when he goes out on a date I make fun of his girl, too. The trouble is he starts a fight and always wins, because he is a little tougher than I am. What can I do to take over?

I am not quite sure what it is you want to "take over." But I think the best way to control, and improve, the situation with your brother is to ignore his cracks about your girls.

After all, if the girls suit you, what if he does make fun of them? It really doesn't change the girls or your relationship with them, so what good does it do to quarrel about it?
Your brother obviously likes to tease you and knows he can do it easily. My advice is to

Muggsy Smith Home Is Haven for Antiques

By YOLANDE GWIN

The home of Rep. and Mrs. Muggsy Smith at 174 The Prado in Ansley Park is a repository of conversation pieces.

In the first place, Mrs. Smith has filled her home with charming and beautiful antiques, as well as many pieces which have been brought to her from Europe.

And in the second place, the home, built in 1919 by Charles Mion, is a replica of an Italian villa.

A connoisseur of objects d'art with authentic backgrounds, Mrs. Smith said the other day that she loves and appreciates old things.

This is the second in the series of stories on wives and homes of members of the Fulton County delegation in the Georgia General Assembly.

"I am especially fond of my desk here," she said as she waved toward a French antique. "My mother brought it to me from the Isle of Wight. It's a genuine antique because mother brought it back—duty free—and that proves it is over 150 years old."

"Mother" is Mrs. Harriett Stalker, who taught in the city schools for 26 years.

The desk is French marquetry featuring mother of pearl and ivory.

Throughout the home are Royal Dauton china figurines and many Staffordshire "castles"—the beginning of a collection.

SUNNY LIVING ROOM

The large sunny living room has a rose-colored carpet and blending pink walls. An attractive lamp has an original kerosene lamp base, and adding a touch of interest to the fire-side is a warming pan.

There is a miniature furniture grouping beside the mantel. Here the three children, Stephanie, Meredith and Scot, have furniture scaled to size beside the special section of the bookcase filled with literature aimed toward youth.

Young Stephanie's room has twin four-poster canopy-top beds. In here is her collection of dolls from throughout the world. Many are ballet types, Stephanie being a talented dancer.

Meredith, called the "Little Mermaid," is an expert swimmer and her parents have a special table and wall cabinet filled with her trophies. Scot, like most small boys, has a "ride 'em cowboy" decorative theme in his room.

The master bedroom is offset by a handsome Chippendale bed complete with a stepping stand.

A surprise Christmas gift which occupies an important spot in the house is the large cut glass punch bowl which centers the dining room table.

"Muggsy had it wrapped in a crate and told me it was filled with oranges from Indian River. I decided since we had so much fruit I'd keep it for Christmas to open. You can imagine my shock when I saw the bowl and the 12 cups. It's something I had waited for years," said Mrs. Smith.

GRANDFATHER CLOCKS

Two massive grandfather clocks, colorful historical maps from Scotland and antique silver add interest. One wall grouping is especially pretty. A centerpiece is Wedgwood, and is an Agnes Scott College anniversary souvenir piece. It is surrounded by small china wall plaques that Mrs. Stalker brought her daughter from Copenhagen.

It was in 1919 that Charles Mion, a native of Italy, built this home which the Smiths now own. The exterior is made of ground marble, and the foundation is of hollow tile. Exquisite

Atlanta Accent Kindergarten Puzzle—Answer Walks In

By MARJORY SMITH

AUDUBON FOREST Methodist Church kindergarten-officials have fresh conviction that "the Lord works in a mysterious way."

Last week they enrolled 4-year-old Norbert Dietrich, shy German refugee, with secret misgivings.

Teachers Mrs. Price Howard and Mrs. P. S. Eddy do not speak German. Little Norbert, of course, has no English yet.

Norbert und Tim Sprechen Deutsch

"We wondered how in the world we could communicate with Norbert and make him comfortable and happy until he began to feel at home with the other children," Mrs. Howard smiled. "Then—and to us it's a small miracle—little Kim Hull came by to register that same afternoon."

Kim, American 4-year-old, was born in Germany while his dad, Lt. Col. Keith Hull, was stationed there with the occupation Army.

"We thought it was practical to start Kim off with German," his mother explained. "Everybody around him spoke that language. I'm a Virginian, and my German is not perfect. In fact, my youngster often corrects my grammar."

"But we put Kim in a German kindergarten at the age of 2, and he didn't even know English until shortly before we returned to the States last fall."

Photographer Ryan Sanders shows here how Kim and Norbert can share an A-B-C learner's book. Kim is "interpreting" for his new friend. Other classmates now start their day with "Guten Morgen" as well as "Hi," and even the teachers are picking up some "Deutsch" phrases.

Norbert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jens Dietrich, fled Communism and came to the United States in January under sponsorship of Audubon Methodist Church's Fideles Class.

Dietrich is working as a welder for Delta Air Lines, and the German family lives near the church at 1615 Orlando Pl., S.W. Kim's father is now stationed at Ft. McPherson. The Hulls live at 1784 Gilliam Dr., East Point.

"THE GIRL who thinks no man is good enough for her may be right," points out Snapshots; "also, she may be left."

THAT ERUDITE INDIAN who stands outside a Forsyth street tobacco shop wearing signs calculated to win chuckles and influence customers has a new message this week: "Squaw on warpath? Get peace pipe inside!"

Annie Lou Hardy Dan Johnson Family Here for Residence

Because she was born and bred in Atlanta, Mrs. Dan W. Johnson and her six children preferred to come here to live while Col. Johnson is serving a 16-month tour of duty in Korea.

And they are now settled, believe it or not, at 1098 Dan Johnson Rd. on the very land on which Col. Johnson was born and reared. In fact the eldest son, Daniel Allen, is the sixth Dan Johnson to live on Dan Johnson road.

"This property was once the Johnson farm," explained Mrs. Johnson, "and members of the family still own the property. I naturally wanted to come back here because my mother, Mrs. Carrie Garland, lives in Atlanta, as well as my husband's mother, Mrs. Elsie Johnson."

Col. Johnson does not leave for Korea until Feb. 21, so he is still with his family. The children range in age from 14 down to 2. The four eldest, Dan, Lynne, Jerry and Brittain, have enrolled at Druid Hills School. The family has affiliated with Glenn Memorial Methodist Church.

MR. AND MRS. DAN B. HODGSON and their small daughters, Anne and Kitty, are looking forward to moving into a new home, though it will probably not be until early summer. They have bought the Ashley Johnson home at 2603 Dellwood Dr. between Peachtree Battle and W. Wesley road.

MR. AND MRS. CHALMER BRYANT and their son, Tarby, will entertain at a small dinner party Tuesday evening at their W. Wesley road home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Taylor and Norman Williams of Raleigh, N.C. Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor Flanders of Carrollton will complete the guest list.

Mr. Taylor, who is director of Camp Sea Gull, will show movies of the camp that evening at Morris Brandon School, with former and prospective campers and their families in attendance.

TWO ATLANTA COUPLES are on their way for a Caribbean cruise this week. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Harris left Friday for Charleston, S.C., where they boarded the Olympia. They will visit eight ports in the islands, Panama Canal Zone and South America, returning home Feb. 25.

THE CUB SCOUTS of the Christ the King Cathedral are honoring the Most Rev. Francis E. Hyland, bishop of Atlanta, and parish priests at the annual Blue and Gold dinner tonight. The affair to be held in the school auditorium will celebrate the 47th year of scouting in America.

The menu and decorations will be arranged by Mrs. W. P. Crenshaw Jr., Mrs. George V. Stephens, Mrs. Brunswick A. Bagdon, Mrs. John P. Irvin Jr., Mrs. Richard A. Parks, Mrs. Joseph A. Kane and Mrs. Henry E. Wuerth, den mothers of Pack 165.

SEVERAL GEORGIA COEDS are included in the new list of officers for the Alpha Delta Pi sorority at Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Mary Singer of Lumpkin has been chosen first vice president. Jerry Johnson of Macon is recording secretary, and Betty Holloway of Macon is chaplain. Barbara Gladney of Bremen has been named guard.

Other Georgia officers are scholarship chairman Marguerite Garner of Milledgeville, social chairman Betty Browder of Atlanta, jewelry representative Lu McGehee of Atlanta, party chairman Gail Leggett of Macon and Mary Singer of Lumpkin, reporter-historian Donna Foster of Atlanta, efficiency chairman Caroline Jones of Millen, magazine chairman Judy Wooten of Macon and campaign chairman Fran Crossett of Atlanta.

MRS. JOHN F. THIGPEN, state regent of DAR, has left her Atlanta home to visit DAR chapters around the state. Last week she visited the Toccoa chapter and stayed in the home of Mrs. Bruce Schaefer, regent. Today she is addressing the Augusta chapter at a meeting in the Old Government House. On Feb. 14 she will be the guest of the John Clarke chapter in Social Circle. And on Feb. 20 she will be in Darien as the guest of the Saint Andrew's Parish chapter.

Celestine Sibley Planning's In the Air

The day of towns and cities growing Topsy-like "every-which-away," as we used to say in the country, may soon be gone forever. Planning's in the air!

Rep. Tom Fellows of Douglas has a couple of bills in the Legislature to establish a state-wide planning commission and to authorize the towns and counties over the state to form their separate planning commissions.

It's a thing Atlanta got into, rather belatedly it turned out, and some small towns in the state have dabbled at with considerable interest and enthusiasm. (Cleveland is the one I think of first. I went along with a photographer when a class in municipal planning from Georgia Tech began a series of studies which developed into a comprehensive and imaginative plan for the growth of the pretty little mountain town.)

The purpose of Mr. Fellows' bills is to assign to some far-sighted, responsible citizens in every community the task of looking ahead and trying to visualize the needs of the future and to lay a little practical groundwork for that growth. Mr. Fellows didn't say so, but I wouldn't be surprised if a planned city of the future won't somehow avoid the constant digging up of water and gas mains, the eternal hacking away at the streets, which is apparently going to be Atlanta's portion from now on. With sufficient foresight there may even be a way of avoiding the development of slums which even exist in some of the prettiest little towns in the state.

Under provisions of Mr. Fellows' plan even the state's future development may be charted. It says in his legislation:

"In particular, the commission shall have the power and duty to prepare and, from time to time, amend, extend, or add to a general plan or plans thereof for the over-all development of the state. . . . It may include, among other things, recommendations for the most desirable generalized pattern of land use within the state for residence, business and industry, parks, reservations, refuges, and other open spaces, forests, agriculture, mining, and other purposes in the light of the best available information concerning topography, climate, soil and underground conditions, water courses and bodies of water and other material or environmental features."

Such planning, of course, will include state institutions, utilities, flood control, water reservoirs and their watersheds, pollution control facilities and military installations.

Mr. Fellows would also include for the county and city commissions a little professional help if and when they need it. (In case you're worrying about the high cost of a new commission in the state government, this one would serve without pay, except for traveling and other expenses while working.)

Although engineering schools like Georgia Tech and some municipal officials have known about city and county planning for some time, it is fairly new to American living. Our pattern is generally like the pattern of a rural settler—throwing up a house near a spring and then a barn close enough for convenience but far enough for rudimentary sanitation. Looking ahead is something we haven't had much time for—until now.

Now, as Rep. Fellows points out, it appears to be necessary.

Society in Texas—2

Never Ate Pot-Likker, Corn Bread

By GLADWIN HILL
DALLAS, Feb. 11—Two of the most renowned figures in Texas, financiers Clint Murchison and Sid Richardson, do "belong" in society, even though they are the subjects of apocryphal rags-to-riches legendary rises. Actually, it is pointed out in Dallas, both came from families of some means and "never ate pot-likker and corn bread."

Just outside the plush rope of the society reservation are two more identifiable categories. One is "cave society," comprising the affluent habits of the private bottle clubs that flourish under Texas' cocktail-less semi-prohibition. Another is "barbecue society"—people with the means to stage spreads that are extravagant but devoid of social recognition.

DOGPATCH AND LOUIS XIV
It is from these two strata that emanate most of the sagas suggesting a latter-day alliance of Dogpatch with the court of Louis XIV.

Texas society was quite unimpressed by the Texas oil man who staged a lavish New Year's Eve shindig in Hollywood reportedly with the idea of showing that Texans can do things with a delicate touch.

"If he'd sent that party in Dallas and given out a thousand invitations," a well-qualified observer remarked, "I doubt if he'd have gotten 500 acceptances."

A recognized phenomenon in Texas is "climbing balls," given by people trying to establish themselves. It seldom works. A Dallas mother who mounted a presentation of her daughter as a "debutante" without the imprimatur of the social community, got such a chilly response she called off the party.

Houston laughed for years over the way the Chronicle's iron-jawed society editor, Mrs. Belle Costello, sternly refused to print the names of some of the closest friends of Jesse H. Jones, the financier who owned the paper.

WEALTH OF DIFFERENCE
Something of an exception to the social criteria in metropolitan Texas is the state's northwestern Panhandle centering on Amarillo, which has taken some relish in the sobriquet "the spendingest town in Texas."

The Panhandle was nothing but open space until 1887 when the railroad came through. Today Amarillo is a sizable city with some dignified clubs. But there are huge cattle and oil fortunes whose custodians can remember when they or their immediate relatives were going around barefooted. Consequently, wealth and social stature have tended to be synonymous—with some amusing consequences.

One of Amarillo's first families was entertaining an Eastern friend a few years ago at a sumptuous dinner that went quite decorously until a choice of desserts was mentioned. Then the head of the household, with a fondness for meringue, blurted out: "I'd like some of that pie with callalobbers on it."

PARTIES WITH SPLASH

Texas society can do things in a big way. Parties with hundreds of guests involving outlays on the order of $50,000 and "imported" name bands are taken in stride.

Jake Hamon, an "old-oil" man and a top-drawer figure in Dallas, annually gives a spectacular party with such fillips as truck-loads of man-made snow to simulate winter in July.

But most nights of the year proceedings at such representative social centers as the Dallas, San Antonio and Houston Country Clubs are as prosaic as at their counterparts in Westchester or Lake Forest.

A note of restraint has punctuated social display since as far back as the depression. Houston society then suspended debutante presentations for several years not because of poverty, but because it was thought they would look bad.

Significant of conservatism is the fact that the hotels where major social events are staged are the old ones—the Menger in San Antonio, the Baker in Dallas, the Rice in Houston—rather than those of glossier vintage.

SERVANT PROBLEM

The formal social season in Texas starts orthodoxly in November and runs until spring. Each big city—including such centers as Fort Worth and Waco—has a half dozen major assemblies, several keyed to such events as the local symphony and opera seasons.

Although at least one Houston telephone listing for its servants' quarters, even Texans generally haven't been able to cope with the help problem. "I just had to fire my servants," one lady recounted, "when they started making us have dinner at 5:30."

Now when parties are given at home, it is usually with the same catering crews night after night. One dowager, going out of her way to greet a butler at a party, remarked jocosely: "I'm judged socially by the number of times I see Lewis in a week."

Texas society is a city-by-city affair and there are no longer any social dictators, even on a local basis. But one social figure celebrated throughout the state and even beyond its border is Miss Ima Hogg. She is now around eighty but still a civic beacon of Houston.

MISS IMA HOGG

Miss Hogg is the daughter of the famous Col. James Stephen (Jim) Hogg, the first native of Texas to become its governor in 1891. Miss Hogg was given her first name not, as legend has it, out of cruel whimsy, but because it was the name of the heroine of a romantic poem, "The Fate of Marvin," of which her father was fond. Although she is the acknowledged matriarch of Houston's old-guard society, Miss Ima has never essayed the role of arbiter nor preoccupied herself with social trou-tou. Practically all her social life has revolved around the arts and community activities. From 1943 to 1949 she served on the Houston School Board.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Pull Out of High Gear Without Tranquilizers

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Living less strenuous life is neither boring nor difficult, once you get the swing of it. A reduced pace is practiced by men and women who recover from a heart attack as well as by victims of high blood pressure, peptic ulcer or other conditions with an emotional background.

But why wait until you become ill to find this out? The popularity of our tranquilizing drugs is ample proof that millions of people are running in high gear and do not know how to put on the brakes.

Three out of every 10 prescriptions are for products of this nature. They are crutches, pure and simple. Some neurotics who need drugs that encourage fight rather than flight abuse the tranquilizers.

A better substitute is self-discipline. The person who has learned to control himself is far ahead of the game. He lives a life of moderation and will not succumb to tension. We all can do the same, provided we are willing to reorganize our way of life and thinking.

Nonessential tasks that interfere with leisure ought to be dropped, and at work or play, stick to the problems that concern you. There is no sense in getting angry with situations over which we have no control.

No one can eliminate all fears and worries except the stupid or those who have blind faith in others or unusual complacency. On the other hand, anxieties can be minimized by eradicating the source honestly and without regrets.

Most people who buy tranquilizers hope to obtain equanimity over the drug store counter. But it is better to acquire it naturally, and this can be done provided the individual is willing to develop it gradually.

Experience and understanding are required but a balanced mind will result from calmness, serenity, and evenness of temper.

Physical factors also enter the picture. Proper diet and adequate sleep are important. Exercise, just short of fatigue, is sufficient for the sedentary worker. Work is essential for survival and happiness.

Humility helps; the person who does not hesitate to ask the advice of others is more likely to be tranquil. This is the power behind prayer. Furthermore, by giving comfort to others, comfort comes to you.

Firemen's Study Center at Tech Is Aim of Bill

A bill which would create a research and training program for Georgia firemen at Georgia Tech was introduced Monday in the House.

As proposed by Cobb County Rep. Eugene W. Holcombe, the bill would set up the Georgia Fire Institute to be operated as an extension of Georgia Tech under the University System of Regents.

Funds for the institute would come from the University System's budget.

Holcombe, who is secretary-treasurer of the Georgia Firemen's Pension Fund, said Georgia firemen have been seeking a state firemen's training program "for a long time."

Training of firemen now is on a strictly local basis.

Purposes of the institute would be training, testing and research.

The bill says purposes of the proposed act also include reducing the costs in suffering and property from fire, to provide firemen with needed professional training at a minimum cost, to develop new fire prevention and fire fighting methods and to offer regular collegiate undergraduate students training for fire fighting careers.

Newton Co. Gets Augusta Road Job on Recheck

The Henry Newton Co. of Decatur, which had been listed as second, Monday emerged as low bidder on an Augusta four-lane highway project with an offer to do the job for $1,510,947.13.

Southern Roadbuilders, with a bid of $1,278,465, apparently had been low on the project, largest of 38 totaling some $7,600,000 on which bids were opened by the State Highway Board Friday. But a check showed an error of some $83,000 in addition in this bid, making it third.

Baseball and Buggies

In an era of prosperity when most sports are ringing the cash register at a record clip, minor league baseball is making a last-ditch fight for its life.

Everything from television to the price of peanuts has been blamed for the decline in customers and subsequently in the number of leagues. Everyone from Ford Frick to Johnny Applegate has searched for an answer without success.

Baseball operators are normally the most optimistic members of the sports family. Each spring they visualize pennants and packed parks. Even in Little Rock they patently say, "Wait until next year." Even as this was being written, it was learned there will be no Georgia State League this year, the latest casualty in the minors.

The Southern Association has long been recognized as one of the solid pillars in baseball society. But there are signs of pessimism around the circuit as a new season nears.

Red ink flowed in most front offices last year, and there is due cause for alarm. True, the Southern Association has won the million mark for the 13th year in a row in 1956. But the combined gate count of 1,065,231 represented the lowest turnout in Charlie Hurth's loop since 1944.

There are several weak lines in the Southern chain. New Orleans, which pulled 400,036 fans into Pelican Stadium in 1947, is on the ropes. Only 96,753 paid to see the Pels a year ago. In the most expensive city in the circuit, visiting clubs failed to break even.

—Crax Were Prosperous in Depression

In desperation, Ray Winder changed cities in mid-stream last season, shifting the Little Rock franchise to Montgomery. Saddled with a miserable team, Montgomery citizens weren't presented a fair test. But for various reasons, Winder has elected to play his hands in Little Rock again this year.

Defenders of Winder say that Little Rock will support a winner, and the pennant-winning Travelers did attract 225,780 in 1951. For the past three seasons, however, the Travelers haven't approached the 100,000 mark. Mobile hasn't hit the century mark in four years.

With the exception of the buggy industry, baseball was perhaps the only business with less customers in 1956 than in 1920. A total of 1,215,367 fans watched Southern games in 1920, compared to 1,065,231 last year.

Atlanta has long been the leading debutante in the Southern. For five straight seasons the Crackers have led the box office parade. But Earl Mann finds it difficult to balance his budget.

Back in 1935, when it was tough to scrape up the price of admission, the Crackers played before 330,795. Last season with a pennant winner and dollars plentiful, only 265,578 paid their way into Poncey.

—Major League City in the Minors

"That's one of the reasons I don't have much hair left," Mann said Monday, as he glanced over the Southern attendance chart for four decades. "I've spent not only days and hours but years trying to figure this thing out."

"Employment, income and business are at an all-time peak," Mann continued, "and baseball is having a hard time trying to break even. You want to be optimistic, but you also must be realistic."

"We talk a lot about TV, and I'm convinced it hurts attendance, as I've said many times. But football, basketball, racing and night clubs don't seem to have any trouble getting the public away from TV. I just don't know the answer. If anyone else does, I'd sure like to hear their views."

Mann, of course, has tried to work out a plan to live with TV via sale of TV booklets. The Crackers will be on local picture tubes again this summer, and the booklets are already on sale.

Civic pride used to sell baseball, and some people maintain that the farm system has wrecked the minors. Undoubtedly major league ownership has strangled baseball in some states. But I don't believe the general public gives a hoot whether Milwaukee or Atlanta owns a player. All they want is a winner.

I'm convinced that Atlanta is a major league city in the minors, a factor which may dampen enthusiasm of local citizens. For example, the Crackers outdrew Milwaukee almost every season, before the Wisconsin city acquired a major league franchise.

Of course, there's no reason to mention major league baseball in this vicinity until the county and city become interested enough to build a stadium. At present no one is interested enough to talk about it.

Hutsell's Turn at Bat as Auburn Launches Spring Football Drills

Special to The Constitution

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 11—Track Coach Wilbur Hutsell called the Auburn football team to order here Monday afternoon.

Wilbur Hutsell, the track coach. Sure, Ralph (Shug) Jordan, the head football man, was here for the opening of spring practice, and so were his talented assistants. But this is an age of speed, and Auburn is not one to be left at the starting gate.

"It all started several years ago," explained Jordan. "Coach (Jack) Meagher got together with Hutsell and decided what football players need was to learn to run. Think that's easy? Do you know how many of us actually can run. Sure, we can move, but can we actually run the right way?"

"That's what Coach Hutsell does. He teaches our boys to run, and we find it has been more than beneficial in past years. This practice was suspended after Meagher, but we resumed it several years ago."

Hutsell has the Tigers moving forward, literally and otherwise for reaction. Player reaction on this first day was what player reaction is always on the first day, but the kinks were unfolding and the 1957 Auburn team began to take shape.

"Speed?" Jordan repeated. "I could compare this team favorably with the 1954 team for speed. That backfield of Joe Childers, Dave Middleton, Bobby Freeman, and Fob James might have had more speed, but I think our present linemen are a little faster."

The first day always brings questions on the potential of a team, and Jordan had an answer.

"I think we'll have another good football team. Here's the point, though: We have little to improve on, that is on our record of the past four years (25-9-1). About the only way we can improve is to beat Georgia Tech and Tennessee," Jordan chuckled.

Toughest games for '57, as Jordan sees them, are with Tech, Tennessee and Florida.

But right now 1957 football is a long way off, and Jordan and his coaches are concentrating on getting a team together.

There are a lot of replacements to be found, and quite a group to pick them from.

A quick glance at the roster would disclose these upcoming frosh and red shirts holding the key to Auburn success:

Ends—Freshman Jack Matchett, Bobby Warden and freshman tackle Leon Myers.

Tackles—Five up from red shirts, Ken Paduch, Teddy Foret, Hindman Wall, Jim Jeffrey, Bill Walter.

Guards—Eddie Tillery, Zeke Smith, Mickey Welch (Atlanta), Rat Tidmore, Hayward Warrick, most frosh converts or red shirts.

Centers—Jackie Burkett, Oscar Knox, Billy Austin, Leroy DuChene.

Quarterbacks—Freshmen John

U.S. Field Trials

All-Age Opens

HERNANDO, Miss., Feb. 11—Defending champion Cross Smokey, owned by George Suttle of Newport News, Va., made a strong bid to keep the U.S. Field Trial Assn. All-Age Title today.

The orange and white pointer bitch, handled by Ed Farrior of Union Springs, Ala., was credited with five clean finds during her one-hour quali hunt.

Eleven other prize bird dogs ran for the judges as the trial got under way. There are 38 yet to show, with 12 up for judging each day.

The win, Tech's easiest and 14th for a Hyder regime record, got the Jackets back over the 500 mark in the SEC. It's now a 6-5 report.

Meanwhile, the Bengals sank to a 1-8 chart in conference play and 6-14 on the season.

"We changed up this game," a smiling Hyder said. "Against LSU's zone we put Kimmel (Bobby) at the free-throw line in sort of a high post. That left Cohen (Lenny) under the basket, and he did a fine job. So did this little Blemker (Bud)."

Hyder was quite correct. This D team did exceptionally well, but so did the whole squad. All nine men played and scored, with five reaching double figures.

Kimmel, a tremendous player, stuck on LSU's Roger Sigler, team's top scorer, and held him to 12 points. Bobby brought a "I hope we don't meet any better" comment from losing coach Harry Rabenhorst.

Then Blemker had his usual hot night. He socked eight of 12 from the field, eight straight in the first half. His 18 first-half points helped considerably in a 48-21 bulge.

The percentages were all Tech. Hyder's hotshots had 32 of 76 for a 42.1 per cent. LSU had 19 of 88 for a 21.8 mark. Rebounds

Indians End Vidalia Deal

In Deadly Blow to League

By AL THOMY

The Class D Georgia State League, which has been sagging at the financial seams for two years, Monday night gave up the baseball ghost and "took a vacation."

Folding of this league, once an incubator for major league prospects, reduced the state's class D teams to six, all in the Georgia-Florida League.

The seams began to rip about a month ago when Douglas, heretofore buttressed financially by the Cincinnati Redlegs, gracefully withdrew from the family. This set up problems.

League President A. O. Hadden of Dublin and league officials, all of whom have faithfully tried to pump oxygen into the gasping league, went to work, and had practically convinced Statesboro it should reenter the fold.

Then this week came the death blow. Vidalia club president Howard Threlkeld disclosed he had notified Cleveland that the city would not be able to continue with the franchise. The Vidalia ball park was almost totally destroyed by a tornado last year, and the city has not rebuilt it. Cleveland announced it was moving the Vadalla franchise to Coconia, Fla.

"There's just no interest in baseball," said Threlkeld, one of the founders of the league. "We are holding some semblance of the organization together so that we may be able to operate in the future."

Four clubs had appeared ready for another season. Thomson was supported heartily by the Baltimore Orioles, Sandersville by the New York Giants, Hazlehurst-Baxley by the Detroit Tigers and Dublin had hope though no ready support.

Said Hadden: "Let's not say the league is folding. Let's just say we're taking a vacation this year."

Though he admitted the situation was critical, Hadden did not entirely eliminate the possibility that the league, should a minor

Hydermen Get Record No. 14

By PAUL ATKINSON

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 11—Georgia Tech and Louisiana State played a Southeastern Conference basketball game in comparative privacy before 1,500 fans in mammoth Parker Agricultural Coliseum, and for Tiger faithful it was just as well.

These Bengals aren't used to such treatment, especially those who remember Bob Pettit and his colleagues. The score was 87-60 and that was because Whack Hyder has a merciful streak in his coaching hand. It could have gone higher, had Hyder elected to go with his first string.

The win, Tech's easiest and 14th for a Hyder regime record, got the Jackets back over the 500 mark in the SEC. It's now a 6-5 report.

Meanwhile, the Bengals sank to a 1-8 chart in conference play and 6-14 on the season.

Giant-Killer Maroons
Beat Kentucky, 89-81

Howell Hits for 37 Points;

Vandy Vols Ride Crest

Compiled From Constitution Wire Reports

Giant-killing Mississippi State, which apparently has more say-so about the Southeastern Conference basketball race than even Bernie Moore, shook up Kentucky, 89-81, at Starkville Monday night.

Bailey Howell, the amazing Maroon sophomore, fired the points that brought blues to the Bluegrass, cheers to Nashville and embarrassment to the voters in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll.

Howell scored 37 points, dragged down 20 rebounds and made himself a general nuisance in spurring Coach Babe McCarthy's team to victory.

No doubt, Vanderbilt's classy Commodores, who could have shown the British how to make a Louisiana invasion, went to bed Monday night with the assurance that justice had been done.

It was just a month ago, lacking three days, that Mississippi State knocked Vanderbilt "out" of the SEC race with a 63-62 triumph. Then when everybody was conceding Kentucky its 17th league flag, the Maroon knocked the Commodores back "in."

However, Vanderbilt would have remained out and Tulane in had not the Commodores furthered their own cause with an easy triumph over the Green Wave.

Captain Bobby Thym, who shifted from his forward post to the pivot, bagged 21 points to pace Vandy's 71-58 breeze.

The victory left Vanderbilt 7-3 in the SEC and hot on the heels of Kentucky, itself riding 8-2. Their collision at Lexington next Monday night will see the league belt in the balance.

Mississippi State could be doubly proud of skinning the Cats because Kentucky stood No. 3 in the nation entering the match.

Elsewhere in the SEC, Alabama's injury-ridden team upset Florida, 66-65; well-balanced Tennessee beat Mississippi, 98-88, despite a thunderous 43-point showing by forward Joe Gibbon.

Tulane's loss and Mississippi State's victory put the teams in a three-way tie with idle Auburn in the conference. All have 6-3 records and threaten bare chances to enter the title picture.

Howell, the league's leading rebounder and best percentage field goal shooter, was aided by jumping Jim Ashmore's 24-point outburst. Ashmore ran his season's total to 532, only four under the school record he set last year.

However, in winning the game, Ashmore lost his SEC scoring leadership. Gibbon's 28.4 average is four-tenths of a point better.

Center Wayne Lemon contributed 13 rebounds to a bristling defense which netted Mississippi State its first victory over Kentucky since 1924. The SEC wasn't formed until 1933.

IS 'HONESTY' BEST POLICY IN PROFESSIONAL WRESTLING?

Legitimate Contests For the Broke: Heim

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 11 (AP)—Honest wrestling just won't work, a Milwaukee promoter said today, and state regulation of the lucrative grunt and groan industry in Wisconsin would kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

Johnny Heim, whose mat shows frequently pack the huge Milwaukee Arena, took a dim view of a recent proposal of the state athletic commission to regulate wrestling and take a slice of the gate receipts in return.

"It would be no good," said Heim. "They would have to run it like college wrestling—honest—and that wouldn't work."

"You can't sell a legitimate contest. There hasn't been a legitimate wrestling contest in 50 years. We tried it once. You could have heard a pin drop in the auditorium. If you put on a legitimate contest, no one would come back for the next one."

State regulation—with a 5 per cent cut of the receipts going to the commission—probably would force most of Wisconsin's little promoters out of business, Heim believes, and the state's take wouldn't be worth the trouble.

Heim thinks the proposal was prompted only because of the decline of boxing receipts.

He's a little indignant about it.

"They didn't want to mix their good stuff with our hippodroming when boxing was in good shape," he commented. "It's only in the last few years we have been prosperous and now everyone wants in. . . . We never needed a commissioner before and we don't need one now."

There's No Faking In Atlanta: Paul Jones

Atlanta wrestling is still honest. It is no fake. At least that's the word of promoter Paul Jones and wrestler Don McIntyre.

Jones has promoted wrestling in Atlanta for 13 years. McIntyre is a nine-year veteran of the grunt and groan game.

Jones, when interviewed by an Associated Press reporter, said McIntyre's statement that "honest wrestling is no good," was "a lie."

"He (Heim) has some of the best wrestlers in the world. They are good wrestlers and don't have to hippodrome. His statement is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard."

"And comparing it with college wrestling. I'll grant you the pros are more colorful," Jones added. "Pro wrestling takes up where the amateurs leave off."

McIntyre's rebuttal to Heim's statement was almost a carbon of Jones'.

"Wrestling here (Atlanta) is certainly honest. We have a commission, pay a license and everything is honest."

"That statement," McIntyre added, "doesn't sound like a promoter. I can't imagine a man who makes his living promoting making a statement like that."

Contrasting college wrestling with professional, McIntyre said, "They have no holds in college wrestling that will even hurt you."

The choice must be with the fans: in Milwaukee it's a circus; in Atlanta—it's "honest."

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP)—George Kell, one of the few active major leaguers with a .300 lifetime batting average, has agreed to contract terms for 1957, the Baltimore Orioles said today.

The club said agreement with the third baseman was reached by telephone at his farm in Swifton, Ark. Kell, in the majors 14 years, batted .271 last season.

The 34-year-old veteran came to Baltimore last year in a deal with the Chicago White Sox. He was Baltimore's representative on the American League All-Star team.

WINNAH? A QUESTION FOR VAN DOREN

Tech's Big Date With Georgia Pits Guards Against Guards

By MICKEY LOGUE

They were playing it as cool as South Pole poker chips—and you couldn't blame 'em.

Here was a question that even Charles Van Doren couldn't answer, probably wouldn't even try to if he'd spent a little time coaching around the Southeastern Conference.

"What will happen when Georgia Tech meets Georgia Thursday night?" a fellow had asked. It came so quiet you could almost hear it for a little while.

Then the gentlemen on the other end of the wire, who have seen their basketball teams in action against both Tech and Georgia recently, agreed to give their appraisal of the big one coming up Thursday.

They did so, though, with the reservation that it's impossible to tell what will happen when Tech and Georgia collide, and they're just as well aware of it as anybody else.

"It should be a great battle of guards," said one. "Terry Randall and Bud Blomker will be tough for Tech, and Ray Allen and Fred Edmondson—if he's ready to go again—give Georgia a good arguing point."

"That Allen is coming fast," came the other's reply. "And Blomker and Randall are mighty fine shots. Tech's guards have to hit for the Jackets to win. They shoot a lot . . . but they also hit a lot."

Cowboy Blomker, who's in Wyatt Earp's class at getting bull-eyes, must have had the lines tapped Monday afternoon. He came up with 18 points the first half against LSU that night.

"Georgia will have a definite home-court advantage, and should have a rebounding edge with Henry Cabaniss, Fred Franks and Sonny Poss on the boards."

"Yes, Georgia should lead the rebounding, but Tech's little men get a lot of 'em. And Lenny Cohen's tough. I'd have to go with Tech, though, on offense and defense."

"Tech seems to have a little edge in steadiness and consistency, and I believe Georgia has a little more trouble adjusting to a changing situation," said one of the coaches.

"But when Georgia's really hitting it can beat most anybody," the other insisted. "Curtis Gleason and Allen are deadly when they're right."

"You might look for a low-scoring game, however," said the other. "Neither team fast-breaks and both use set offensive patterns well."

Prep Basketballers Duel For State Tourney Bids

Region 4-AA Begins Tonight;
Dublin-Sylvania in 2-AA Match

By RALPH GREGORY
Basketball teams in four classifications begin dueling for invitations to the state playoffs this week with regional playoffs in one AAA region, two AA regions, all four A regions and preliminaries in District 3-C.

Region 4-AA gets the higher classifications off Tuesday night with the Western division tournament scheduled at Newnan. The eastern division opening round is scheduled Wednesday night at Covington.

Region 1-AA also opens Tuesday night with the northern division scheduled at Baldwin College gym in Tifton and the southern division playing at Thomasville. Winner and runner-up in each subregion will meet in the regional tournament at Warner Robins Feb. 22-24.

Richmond Academy, unbeaten in Region 1-AAA, has one berth clinched in the Constitution-sponsored AAA state tournament, and the other teams will begin a battle for three other spots Thursday at Augusta. Opening round games match Benedictine against Coffee County with Boys' Catholic playing the winner of a Tuesday night match between Commercial and Savannah and Glynn Academy playing the loser of the same game.

In the Region 4-AA East tournament Druid Hills has been seeded No. 1 and drew a bye to the semifinal round. Newton County girls drew the top-seeded spot and also moved into the semifinals via a bye.

Boots 'N Buddies Hopeful Doherty Makes Marist Region 4-AAA Darkhorse

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Gordon Payne, the 'Boots in the coaching saddle at Marist College, is a cherubic man with a constant winning smile. His closest friends have never known him to worry. He has a basketball team that is causing a lot of other more victory-prosperous coaches to worry, though.

Boots' team that Region 4-AAA coaches are worrying about getting the boot from is in the deep recesses of the league standings. It has a 2-7 won-lost record against region opposition, 5-17 against all foes.

They are worrying because the region tournament is upcoming at the Sacred Heart gym, Feb. 20-23, and because they are afraid Boots and his buddies will upset a lot of apple-carts in a mad, unexpected dash into The Constitution-sponsored state tournament, Feb. 27-March 2, at Georgia Tech.

Ridiculous, isn't it? Not at all. The Ivy Street Cadets are likely to do just that with the most unlikely hardwood aggregation imaginable.

The key figures are Frank Doherty, a 6-4 senior who never knew stardom until this year because Payne thought he was too frail to play varsity ball; and Bert Ackerman and Dowdell (Ducky) Brown, 6-1 forward and 5-9 guard who haven't got sense enough to know freshmen can't be varsity stars.

Of course, there are others like Larry Jollick, 5-11 senior all-state football quarterback; Lloyd Sutter, 5-11 senior who at 130 pounds was named the school's most valuable football player in 1955, and Paul Markley, 6-4 senior who also is more suited to the gridiron wars. But it is since Doherty, Ackerman and Brown first got the taste of stardom that the Cadets have become worthy of worry. Exhibit A: A loss to Decatur's loop leaders after Marist led at halftime, 31-30. Exhibit B: A narrow 51-50 loss to Druid Hills in which Doherty and Avondale's John Corley and Gainesville's Jack Bell as the only players to hit 20 points against the defense-strong 4-AA power in 16 games. Exhibit C: A Friday thumping of now-powerful Southwest DeKalb, 55-53.

Payne once told Doherty he was too light to come out for the team. As a junior Doherty was 6-2 and weighed 130 pounds, 120 after a Christmas bout with pneumonia. But by 4-A tournament time he was back and hit 12, 13 and 16 points as Marist went to the semifinals and lost to Chamblé's state runners-up. Now he's 6-4 and 4-AAA's fourth leading scorer with a 16.6 points-per-game average on 166 counters in 10 outings. He's one of the better rebounders.

Freshman Ackerman, a 6-1 natural who popped home 12 points against Southwest DeKalb, could become an all-time great before he's through. Freshman speedster Brown, brought up from the B team three weeks ago, is driving through for an average of 10 points a game and dazzling foes with his swift floor pace and aggressiveness.

Don't count optimist Boots out. He never counts himself out. And neither do his 4-AAA cohorts. There may be victories behind that smile.

DeKalb Plans Midget Loop Conference

An organizational meeting to set up a midget football league for the North DeKalb area is scheduled Tuesday night at 7 p.m. at the North DeKalb Sporting Goods store.

The league, to be known as the North DeKalb Midget Football Conference, is tentatively slated to have nine teams, each to be coached by former high school coaches or players. In addition, a bowl game to be played at Avondale has been planned for the season's end.

Teams to be entered are Chamblé, Tucker, Avondale, Thomson School, Medlock School, Woodland Church, Glenwood and two from Forest Park.

Blues Win Crown

Sports Arena Blues claimed the women's City Recreation League basketball championship Monday night with a 26-22 victory over the Tomboys. Margaret Collins led the winners with 12 points. Eloise Turner had eight for the losers.

Two Wrestling Cards Friday

Atlanta wrestling fans have a choice of two cards Friday night, one at Larry Bell Auditorium in Marietta, the other at the high school gym in Jonesboro.

At Marietta, Don and Mark Lewin put their International tag team title up for grabs against Red McIntyre and Guy LaRose in a one-fall, 60-minute feature. There are two other matches on this card.

Colts Corral End

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP)—End Don Joyce of the Baltimore Colts signed his 1957 contract, the club announced today. It will be the sixth National Football League season for the former Tulane griddler.

The Jonesboro feature pits Southern heavyweight champ, Dr. Jerry Grahame and the masked Mr. X against Chief Bigheart and Pierce LaSalle in a tag team event.

Matches begin at 8:30 p.m. at both arenas.

Market Plunges Past '56 'Floor'

4 Selling Waves Push Issues Lower in 'Technical Decline'

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (U.S.)—The stock market met its first major test of 1957 today and flunked it. The market fell through the "floor" of the 1956 low—which had provided buying support on four past occasions—and slipped to its lowest level in 15 months.

Values melted in the steepest one-day break since Oct. 10, 1953—which was the second "blue Monday" following President Eisenhower's heart attack. Leading issues were clipped 1 to 4 points in what analysts called a technical decline with no fresh news factors behind it. The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange dropped an estimated 4 billion dollars, based on the decline in the average.

AP AVERAGE FALLS $3.30
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $3.30 to $168.90, lowest point since Nov. 2, 1955, when it stood at $168.80.

The Dow-Jones industrial average fell 8.55 to 457.44. In the AP average, the industrial component fell $4.90 and the rails $4.50, both to new 1956-57 lows, while the utilities dipped 40 cents.

The estimated cash decline since the first of the year, again based on the average, was around $13,800,000,000. Since last Tuesday, the estimated cash decline was about $8,700,000,000. Tuesday saw a fairly sharp drop as Wall Street buzzed with the statement of former President Herbert Hoover that the current inflation showed signs of a depression "agony" such as hit his administration.

BROAD MARKET

The 1,201 issues traded made it the broadest market of 1957, indicating the extent of the liquidation. Individual losses outnumbered advances by 915 to 131. There were 149 new 1956-57 lows as against only one new high.

Illinois Power, which announced a proposed 2-for-1 stock split last week, was up 1 at 60 1/2. Volume totaled 2,170,000 shares compared with 2,120,000 on Friday.

The market was mixed and active at the start, then a lower tendency developed slowly. The worst of the selling came in four concentrated waves.

2 MINUTES BEHIND

The climax selling wave came just before the close when the high-speed ticker tape ran two minutes behind in reporting floor transactions. There was a very slight improvement tendency just before the final gong.

The break today came as a crucial development in the slow, irregular decline that has been the history of the 1957 market. A climax like today's would bring a strong rally or a steep decline in the major divisions were hit by the sell-off, even the utilities, which have resisted the general decline this year.

It cannot adequately demonstrate its practical value to you in your daily work and play, saving and investing, buying and selling. That is why we are now repeating our 26-week trial offer below, for those of you who missed out on it last time. There's no substitute for an actual trial.

How "U. S. News & World Report" Is Different

You see, "U. S. News & World Report" is more than just a magazine. It is really a news service in magazine form -- carefully planned to meet the special needs of those men and women in every community who are carrying above-average business, civic, and personal responsibilities.

For such people (and you are doubtless one of them), surface news of "what has happened" in the world is not enough. You also want to know -- and need to know -- "What does this mean? What caused it? Does it indicate a trend? How will it affect me? What is likely to come next as a result?"

So, just for people like you, the editors specialize in digging out dependable answers to the questions raised in your mind by the news. They bring our 875,000 readers the "inside story" of important changes and trends shaping up in politics -- defense -- prices -- wages -- jobs -- the boom -- the cold war -- desegregation -- taxes -- the stock market -- science -- and what these changes mean to you, your business, your family, your investments, your community.

Why not find out for yourself, at our risk, what you've been missing? Here's how...
